CASHMAN ASKS CENSURE VOTE ON TARIFF BILL

Resolution Pans 9 Badger
Congressmen for Backing Original Measure

COMMANDS 2 SENATORS

Denmark Solon Claims Representative Ignored
Plight of Farmer

Madison—(P)—A resolution aimed to censure nine of Wisconsin's eleven congressmen who voted for the Hawley Tariff bill in its original form was introduced in the state senate today by Sen. John E. Cashman, Denmark.

The resolutions, which commands the lone Wisconsin representative who voted against the measure at its introduction, points out that nine congressmen "saw fit to disregard the plight of the farmer." The author of the resolution is a leader of the progressive Republican forces in the legislature.

A check of the vote on the tariff measure shows that Congressman Merlin Hull, Black River Falls, was the only Wisconsin representative who fought the original bill. Another congressman—Hubert Peavey of Washburn—was absent when the vote was taken.

Sen. Cashman pointed out that the nine congressmen who voted for the measure did so despite the fact that they had been called into extra session to legislate for farm relief. The Hawley measure was characterized by Sen. Cashman as a manufacturer's tariff that put Wisconsin farmers at a disadvantage.

Wisconsin's two senators, Robert M. LaFollette and John J. Blaine, were commanded in the Cashman resolution for their fight against enactment of the Hawley bill. They succeeded in amending the measure so as to eliminate some of its worst features, Sen. Cashman said.

Comes as Surprise

The Cashman resolution came as a bombshell inasmuch as seven of the nine congressmen who voted for the tariff bill were elected as Progressive-Republicans. The senator implied through his resolution that the Progressives who voted for the bill had broken faith with their constituents by failing to provide farm relief.

The Wisconsin congressmen who voted for the tariff bill as it was introduced in the house were Henry Allen Cooper, Racine; Charles A. Kading, Watertown; John M. Nelson, Madison; John C. Schafer, Milwaukee; William H. Stafford, Milwaukee; the late Florian Lampert, Oshkosh; Edward E. Browne, Waupaca; George J. Schneider, Appleton, and James A. Frear, Hudson.

WOODCOCK SERIOUSLY ILL, DOCTOR STATES

Binghamton, N. Y.—(P)—Colonel Amos W. W. Woodcock, national prohibition director, is seriously ill with a high temperature of 102 degrees, Dr. Andrew S. Fritts announced this afternoon. Dr. Fritts attended the prohibition chief who was taken ill during a visit here this morning to investigate prohibition conditions and the alleged bootleg activities of Andrew J. Horvatt, missing president of the looted State Bank of Binghamton.

"Colonel Woodcock is seriously ill and should not be disturbed under any conditions," Dr. Fritts said. "I have not been able yet to definitely determine the character of his illness. I should say he has some sort of a gripe infection."

"I ordered him to bed and to remain there until his condition improves. He must deny himself to all callers."

Rudy Target Of Venerable Grapefruit But Isn't Hit

Boston—(P)—Rudy Vallee, crooning idol of thousands of radio listeners, was greeted with two overripe grapefruit during a performance at the Metropolitan theatre last night. It was the final performance of the opening day of a week's engagement and Rudy was in the midst of one of his characteristic melodes. Without warning, the fruit came hurtling down from the balcony. Neither of the grapefruit struck the singer-musico but one did strike the drummer's cymbals and the other splashed over the stage pros.

The show went on and the young audience gasped. Murmurs of "Is that real?" were audible throughout the house, a desk sergeant "read the riot act" and Rudy kept right on crooning. He to them. Vallee and the theatre man took no notice of the interruption and the management declined to press charges. When he had finished the song, and they were released,

Death Rings Down Curtain For Pavlova, Ballet Queen

Pleurisy and Influenza Take Life on Eve of Proposed Orient Tour

The Hague—(P)—Death today still forever the dainty, fragile form of Anna Pavlova, whose dancing stirred millions, civilized man and savage alike. She would have been 46 years old Jan. 31.

Pleurisy and influenza, contracted early this week after she had been held for hours by a railroad accident in a waiting train at Dijon, France, rang down the curtain upon a life which for 35 years she devoted to depicting in rhythmic movement the beauty she saw around her.

With her at the end were her husband and accompanist, Victor D'André, two Dutch physicians, and her own Russian doctor, Professor Vasilski, who yesterday resorted to a pulmonary operation in a vain attempt to save her life.

Death interrupted her plans to interpret for Occidentals what she had found of grace and beauty in a recent visit to Japan, China, and Asiatic countries. Upon completion of this project she intended to retire, fulfilling a promise that she would leave the stage while in the prime of life.

Denounced by the Bolsheviks as the "darling of aristocrats," she died in virtual exile from the Russia in which she was born, began her ballet lessons at the age of ten, and achieved her first success. In recent years Communist influences had led even to rejection of annual contributions of $500 to other Russian dancers.

It was during her last visit to the United States in 1924, that she announced her marriage to d'André, her accompanist, later revealing that it had taken place 17 years before. Other details of her private life she

Police Seek Arnstein In Faro Swindle

Chicago—(P)—The police investigation of the swindle in which Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackridge, federal revenue official, said she lost $50,000 loaned her by Edward R. Litsinger, wealthy member of the Cook County Board of Review, was concentrated today on an effort to find Julius "Nicky" Arnstein, New York confidence man, suspected of having been the author of the plot.

Both police and federal agents were seeking Arnstein as one of the three men who vanished with the $50,000 which Litsinger lent to Mrs. Blackridge.

Reports were circulated that suspicion was first directed against Arnstein by federal agents when they learned that he had been seen in Chicago's Loop district last Monday, and that his description tallied in some respects with one of the three men described to the Springfield police by Mrs. Blackridge before her return last night to Chicago. She said she lost paper winnings of $207,000 as well as the $50,000 cash.

One of the men who said his name was George Parker was found to resemble Arnstein, although there were discrepancies as to weight and age.

While Litsinger persisted in his statement that he would prosecute everyone involved in the affair, the state's attorney at Springfield, H. E. Fullenwider, said his office would drop the matter. Litsinger said he knew nothing of the faro game but had lent Mrs. Blackridge the money to help her obtain $90,000 which she claimed was due her from acquaintances of her late husband. Mrs. Blackridge, however, maintained that Litsinger knew he was lending her the money to make good a cheque she used so she could collect previous winnings.

The defeat came on a question of confidence posed after interpolation on the efforts of the ministry of agriculture, headed by Victor Boret, to take the reins of the French government and hold them against the straining of the badly teamed parties of the chamber of deputies.

Conferees were begun with the presidents of the chamber and senate and parliamentary committees for a premier-designate to succeed Theodore Steeg, whose ministry fell in the chamber last night, 293 to 283, after a life of forty days. His was the eighty-fifth government of the third republic.

The cause, he said, was "American fathers and mothers are appalled at seeing their boys and girls return home intoxicated night after night."

"Prohibition put the saloon out of business," said Mackintosh. "We may now look to something that will eradicate bootlegging and its attendant evils. The home, whether wet or dry when the law went into effect, now demands something be done to keep the young away from the speakeasies."

"It is too easy to make alcohol. Almost anyone can afford to set up a small still in his cellar. And as for the taste of the stuff, there are very few left who can really discern the new generation, certainly, cannot tell the old brands from overnight stuff."

It is recommended also "leaving as much as possible to regulations rather than fixing details by statute."

REVISION INEVITABLE

San Francisco—(P)—Kenneth Mackintosh of Seattle, one of the five members of the Wickersham commission who recommended further trial and strict enforcement of prohibition, asserted here today that a change in the dry law was inevitable.

The cause, he said, was "American fathers and mothers are appalled at seeing their boys and girls return home intoxicated night after night."

"Prohibition put the saloon out of business," said Mackintosh. "We may now look to something that will eradicate bootlegging and its attendant evils. The home, whether wet or dry when the law went into effect, now demands something be done to keep the young away from the speakeasies."

ENTIRE TOWN DESTROYED

Mexico City—(P)—Mahatun, in the state of Oaxaca, was entirely destroyed by last week's earthquake. Not a house was left standing in the town, a government commission reported today.

An amendment by Senator Kenneth Mackintosh, Democrat, Wyoming, for $10,000 to extend the market news service to Casper, Wyo. also was adopted.

GIGANTIC METEOR IS SEEN THROUGHOUT EAST

New York—(P)—The attention of astronomers was called today to a meteor of remarkable size and brilliance which was observed darting across the skies last night at various points from New Jersey to Chicago. It was seen from south to north shores after 6 o'clock p.m. Mary Clegg Suffa, professor of astronomy at Elmira college, said the object was a meteor.

As was to be expected, passionate partisans, without having had any opportunity to examine thoroughly the object, were quick to jump to conclusions.

The meteor was seen from New Jersey to Canada.

Thousands of persons in Elmira, N. Y., saw what they described as a bright star with two lines of light behind it, sweep across the heavens from south to north shores after 6 o'clock p.m. Mary Clegg Suffa, professor of astronomy at Elmira college, said the object was a meteor.

At Syracuse, N. Y., the meteor was visible for nearly a minute.

Observatory there said its duration was northeast and that it was of light shot out from it as though it were disintegrating.

Gangster, Wanted In Buckley Slaying, Arrested In Detroit

HELD WITH PAL ON CHARGE OF ARMED HOLDUP

Buckley Once Acted as Counsel for Accused Gang Member

Detroit—(P)—Frank Cammarata, gangster named last August by Thomas C. Wilcox, then police commissioner, as one of the men responsible for the killing of Jerry Buckley, radio operator, was arrested early today in a residence on East Hawley ave.

Cammarata and Charles Aiello, described as a member of the once notorious Locavoli-Miceri river gang, were held on charges of armed robbery, and Cammarata's wife, Grace, was detained as a police witness.

Inspector John A. Hoffman of the black hand squad, said that Cammarata has been sought for months for questioning by the special grand jury in connection with the killing of Buckley, but that in addition there are at least two other crimes for which he is wanted, one being the $2,275 robbery of a branch bank in 1925.

While the latter case was pending Cammarata and Thomas (Yonny) Licavoli, also mentioned in connection with the Buckley case, were arrested in Windsor, Ont., and charged with illegal possession of firearms.

Acted As Counsel

Buckley figured in the case to a more or less extent as counsel for the men, although he did not practice in Canada. Police have been told that a considerable sum of money was raised to procure a new trial for the pair and that Buckley was assigned the task of handling it. Buckley was killed shortly after the men were released from prison, and the story of their misadventure in Canada was one of the first explanations offered for the killing of Buckley.

Wilcox unreservedly named Cammarata as one of the suspects, but his name has not been brought prominently into the case since the investigation was taken over by the grand jury. Three other men now are being held on murder charges as a result of the jury's inquiry.

WANTS LABORATORY FOR SMALL STORES

University Head Would Put Independents on Par With Big Business

Milwaukee—(P)—Development of a research laboratory at the University of Wisconsin which would place small independent merchants on a parity with big business institutions was proposed by Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the university, at a meeting of the Milwaukee Forum last night.

Dr. Frank's plan was in line with the recent campaign proposal of Gov. La Follette who pointed to "the menacing growth of chain institutions and the need of aiding the independent businesses."

"I should like to see the university develop a research laboratory that could be used by every independent grocer, every drug store, every small foundry and every small institution in the state which is unable to purchase individually the same research facilities as big business," Dr. Frank said.

Dr. Frank said big businesses were spending millions for research laboratories and for the employment of "graffies" to pore around and find out where things could be done in a different way."

"If the university is to be enlightened as the United States Steel corporation or the American Telephone and Telegraph company, it too must have its facilities," Dr. Frank said. "So much our small businesses if they are to meet competition."

He suggested the laboratory could be financed by small contributions from the businesses benefited and by a contribution from the state itself.

General Weather

It is snowing lightly this morning at scattered places in the lake region and rain along the Pacific coast with 1.12 inches reported from Seattle, Wash., this being the second consecutive day that more than an inch of rain has been reported from that station. Fair weather prevails generally over the rest of the country. It is slightly cooler this morning in the New England states and upper St. Lawrence Valley but elsewhere temperatures are moderating, with much warmer reported from western Canada and the northern Rocky Mountains. Cloudy weather, with probably snow and warmer, is expected in this section tonight and Saturday.

JUSTICE FOWLER TO BE SPEAKER AT BAR MEETING

WOULD RESTORE BANK CREDIT TO STATE FARMERS

Move Stressed Further in Attempt to Probe State Banking Department

Madison—(P)—Restoration of banking credit to farmers and small business men of the state, provided in a bill introduced in the assembly Wednesday by G. E. Ingram, Eau Claire, was further stressed in a resolution ready for introduction today instructing the assembly committee on insurance and banking to conduct a thorough investigation of the policies of the state banking department and the operation of the state banking laws.

"My purpose," Mr. Ingram said, "is to throw the light of publicity on the banks to the extent that they must show in their published statement what proportion of their securities are Wisconsin investments."

"I propose to introduce a resolution in the assembly to call for an investigation of banking conditions in this state. Bankers are reluctant to tell their troubles except when subpoenaed. Under the cry of liquidity the pendulum has swung too far in the direction of bond investments and loans on stocks. I shall do all in my power to make it possible to restore confidence in the real estate mortgage and character loans of the people of this state."

Mr. Ingram said that under the Kohler administration a bill was passed virtually compelling the investment of the teacher retirement fund and other state funds in bonds, thus closing another avenue to real estate mortgages. He proposes to limit the investment of state funds to three classes, namely, first mortgage real estate loans in Wisconsin, loans to Wisconsin co-operative associations, and loans to independent banks on said banks' securities when cash assets are low.

"This would prevent such banks from being obliged to the larger banks and should greatly reduce bank failures, because healthful cooperation would thus be forthcoming," he said. "Because of criticism, adverse to home credits, many of the national banks would like to become state banks; but before doing so would like to see some clarification of the state banking policy."

FARMERS ORGANIZE NEW GRANGE GROUP

Black Creek Group to Meet Again on Jan. 27 to Elect Officers

Organization of a new chapter of the Wisconsin State Grange was made at a meeting at Black Creek Monday night. John Spears, town of Ellington farmer, president at the meeting and George R. Schaefer, a deputy of the National Grange, addressed the group, stressing the need of farmer's organizations and the advantages of the Grange. Herman Ihde, master of the state Grange, also gave a short talk, explaining in detail the financial working of the Grange. Edward Sassman was appointed temporary secretary of the new group and those who were there were given an opportunity to become charter members of the new organization. Another meeting is to be held Tuesday evening, Jan. 27, for the completion of the charter list and the election of officers.

EMDER PRESIDENT OF NEW GREETERS CHAPTER

A local branch of the Greeters Association of America was organized at a meeting in the Blue room of Convay hotel Thursday evening. C. H. Ender of the Convay hotel was elected president, J. W. Doyle of the Retlaw hotel at Fond du Lac was chosen vice president, and S. B. Williams of the Valley Inn at Neenah, secretary.

Twenty-five hotel men from Green Bay, Kaukauna, Menasha, Neenah, Oshkosh, Appleton, Fond du Lac, Ripon, Green Lake, Berlin, Plym, Sheboygan, Manitowoc, Chilton, Shawano, New London, Clintonville, Beaver Dam, Antigo and Wausau were present. The club will meet once a month.

POSTOFFICE INQUIRY ANSWERED BY BLAINE

The chamber of commerce Friday morning received word from Senator John J. Blaine at Washington, D. C., in regard to his communications with Perry J. Heath, assistant secretary of the treasury department, on plans for the new Appleton post-office building. Senator Blaine stated that Mr. Heath informed him that the new building would not be constructed of brick unless the cost of stone exceeds the appropriation. If the cost of stone exceeds the appropriation, it will be necessary to petition the treasury department for an increase in appropriation or build an addition of brick, Senator Blaine stated.

FIND BODY OF WOMAN HIDDEN AWAY IN HOME

Discovery Made Two Days After Body of Employer Is Found

Oneida, N. Y.—(P)—The body of Mrs. Laura J. Manning, 48, the head crushed with a hammer and her throat slashed, was found this morning concealed under a small trap door in the kitchen of the home of Albert E. Suits, 63, here today by her son, Charles Manning, state trooper.

The finding of the body followed by two days the suicide of Mrs. Manning's employer, Suits, in a hotel room in Rome, N. Y., on Wednesday. Suits' throat was cut with a butcher knife.

The woman's son, long in the state police, collapsed at the sight of his mother's body. She had come from Mount Vernon a month ago to take up duties as housekeeper for Suits.

Neighbors had not seen the woman about the Suits house Monday afternoon and after the finding of the body of Suits in Rome they communicated with the police.

The first search of the Suits home yesterday by police revealed that Mrs. Manning apparently had packed up her belongings preparatory to leaving the house. The packed suitcase was found.

Then they found several towels in the bathroom that appeared to be stained with blood. This finding spurred them on to an intensified search. They were about to give up when discovery of a turned up edge of a piece of linoleum in the kitchen led them to the trap door. The body was jammed into the small space below.

With his mother dead, Trooper Manning later made preparation to go to Syracuse today as one of the star witnesses in the trial of Roy J. Miller, Syracusean, accused of the murder of Miss Gladys L. Black in a room in the Fayetteville inn last June.

Police later said there could be no doubt that the case was one of murder and suicide. They revealed that one or two letters, found in the woman's house said Suits had threatened to kill her but that she was not afraid.

On Sunday, the police said, Mrs. Manning informed headquarters in 1895, a "History of Wisconsin" published in 1895, issues of the New York Tribune, Philadelphia Press, Sunday Dispatch, National Gazette, Evening Telegraph and Harper's Weekly daily back to Civil War days, an old map of Appleton, and the bylaws of the Peoples Saving Fund and Building association, organized in Appleton in 1883.

"Who took the lamp out of this socket?"

Wisconsin Girl is Brightest

FROM three to twelve. That's the period which is most important to your child's development. And that's the time many are retarded mentally and physically by constipation.

Watch your child, mother! At the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, headache, biliousness, lack of energy or appetite, give a little California Fig Syrup.

This pure vegetable product cleanses, regulates child's bowel without discomfort. No danger of forming the laxative habit when California Fig Syrup is used. For it tones and strengthens weak bowels. In colds or children's diseases, employ its gentle aid to keep the system from becoming clogged with germs or waste.

Mothers everywhere are eager to tell of the benefits secured for their children. Mrs. Frank Galloway, 559 Washington St., Milwaukee, says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with Betty since she was a baby for upset, bad breath, coated tongue or constipation. It keeps her the brightest, happiest five-year-old I know!"

Look for the name California when buying. That is on every carton of the genuine, for your protection.

IT certainly is annoying to find when you wish to turn on a light that someone has left the socket empty. How often that happens, even in pretentious homes!

If a lamp burns out in the kitchen or the pantry there is likely to be a violent protest from Father when he gets ready to use the portable lamp in his favorite corner of the living room.

The pity of it is that the practice of taking lamps from one fixture to supply another continues to bring gloom into homes where happiness might so easily prevail.

You can always have spare lamps in the house, ready for use when they are needed.

The cartons in which MAZDA Lamps are packed prevent breakage and are a great convenience. With a carton of lamps on the shelf it isn't necessary to rob a socket in the living room, the hall, or a bedroom when light is needed somewhere else.

You are going to need those extra lamps sometime. Why not buy them in the convenient carton, and avoid trouble?

Forgetting to turn off the light

People often permit their pleasures to be spoiled by trivial things.

Remembering suddenly that she has left an electric lamp burning in her bedroom causes Mrs. B. to lose all interest in the bridge party.

She hurries home, without waiting for the refreshments, to get that lamp turned off. As far as she is concerned, the whole evening is spoiled.

And what is that light, shining merrily for three hours and a half, going to cost her? Take a long breath and be prepared for the worst. Nearly two cents! Yes, indeed. Half a cent an hour—you can figure it out for yourself.

Among your necessities, water and the air you breathe are about the only ones that cost you less than electric light.

Why try to get along with less light than is needed for the

WISCONSIN MICHIGAN POWER CO.

COUNCIL POWER OVER OFFICES IS EXPLAINED

Changes Should Be Made at Next Meeting Through Salary Ordinance

The power of the council to abolish or reorganize certain city offices was explained in an opinion prepared by Roger R. Tuttrup, assistant city attorney, read at the meeting of the common council Wednesday night. The communication, requested by the council at a former meeting, suggested that if any changes are to be made they should be accomplished through the salary ordinance, which must be adopted at the next meeting of the council.

State law makes it absolutely mandatory that the salaries of all officers who may be elected or appointed during the ensuing year be fixed at the first regular meeting of the council in February. However, the statute does not apply to newly created offices whose salaries may be fixed whenever they are lawfully appointed. Failure to set a salary, the attorney points out, would probably result in the continuation of the old salary.

The offices of engineer, health commissioner and street commissioner may be abolished by ordinance, and other offices and boards substituted, the opinion explains. The consolidation of these offices or some of them under a specified board or department, which the council has the right to create, is possible.

Need Plumbing Official

Under the state law the selection of a building inspector is optional, though the municipal ordinance requires his election. Thus any change would have to be effected by ordinance. The appointment of a plumbing inspector is made mandatory by both state and municipal law, but the attorney pointed out no reason is apparent why the offices of building inspector and plumbing inspector could not be placed under the jurisdiction of a superior board or department.

Inasmuch as the office of poor commissioner originated with the council, that body is free to abolish or consolidate the office as it sees fit, though such a change must be made by ordinance.

The office of sealer of weights and measures, required by state law, cannot be abolished, but the sealer may be given additional duties if they are not inconsistent with his primary duties and if the extra compensation is charged to the proper fund or department.

The council can abolish the offices of weighmaster, of keeper and matron of the city home by ordinance as those offices were originally created by the council.

Under the Wisconsin statutes the appointment of a health commissioner is required, and the employment of a city nurse rests with the board of health. The appointment of a board of health and the selection of a health officer by the board is also mandatory.

Mayor Appoints Committee To Study Garbage Disposal Methods

GROUP STARTS WORK TODAY TO COLLECT DATA

Five of Six Members of Special Body Voted Against Incinerator

Five of the six men appointed by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., to investigate methods of garbage disposal other than incineration are aldermen who voted against the construction of an incinerator the last time the matter was brought before the council. W. H. Vanderheyden, who has consistently opposed the purchase of an incinerator, is chairman. Others are Aldermen Oren Earle, George T. Richard, R. F. McGillan, Harvey Kitner and George Packard. Mr. Packard is the only member of the committee who voted to purchase an incinerator, though Mr. Kitner was chairman of the incinerator committee, which presented a unanimous recommendation for this type of garbage disposal.

Starts Work Today

Starting at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon the group will consider a number of garbage disposal proposals, other than by incineration, and will discuss the methods of garbage disposal used in other Wisconsin cities. Since the defeat of the incinerator project, Mayor Goodland, Jr., has gathered a great deal of information on the methods of garbage disposal used by other Wisconsin cities. These letters will be read and the various hog-feeding and dumping proposals now in the hands of the mayor discussed. The committee expects to complete its investigation with expedition, and be ready to report at the next meeting of the common council.

Power to appoint the new committee, commonly dubbed the "hog-feeding" committee, was given the mayor at the meeting of the council Wednesday night after a more or less vicious battle between the incinerator and hog-feeding factions. The incinerator proponents attempted to stall the naming of a new committee by maintaining that all matters of garbage disposal were turned over to the board of public works by a former action of the council. The hog-feeding group struggled for the appointment of a new committee because of the division of opinion among members of the board of public works. After a heated argument the council voted 7 to 5 to lay the matter in the hands of a new committee.

Old Subject Now

Rising out of the smoke of the Lawrence-st dump, the movement to provide a garbage disposal system for Appleton has been before the council for several months. An incinerator committee, after a complete investigation of incineration, presented a unanimous report recommending the purchase of an incinerator and the location of it at the stock fairgrounds. Incinerator bids were obtained and tabulated, but when the decision on the type of plant came before the council strong agitation for an investigation of hog-feeding and other methods of garbage disposal resulted in the defeat of the resolution to immediately pursue these an incinerator and the subsequent a committee to investigate other angles of the garbage disposal question.

CITY SEEKS DEEDS FOR EXTENSION OF ALLEY

The city attorney was instructed at the last meeting of the common council to procure deeds for property for an alley from Walnuts-to-Superior. It will be necessary to purchase property from 18 property owners and fill in a section of the Lawrence-st ravine before construction of the alley can be started.

An alley now exists from Walnut-st to the property owned by H. Notaras, but for some time owners of property east of the Notaras lot have been clamoring for an extension of the alley.

The attorney was instructed to secure the deeds so work on the filling in of the ravine can start as soon as dirt is available.

CIRCULATE PAPERS FOR NOMINATION OF CROWE

Nomination papers were secured from the city clerk's office Thursday by Cornelius F. Crowe, 1018 W. Lawrence-st, who will be a candidate for the Third ward aldermanic position. Mr. Crowe ran against Alerman George T. Richard last year.

Frank Schwank, 335 S. Main-st., is a second aspirant for the Third ward seat on the council. W. H. Gmeiner, incumbent, has not yet decided if he will enter the race again.

VANDALS TAKE 2ND PHONOGRAPH FROM ELMS RURAL SCHOOL

Vandals broke into the Elms rural school, town of Hortonia, over the weekend and stole the school's phonograph, according to a report from Miss Almyra Kohl, the teacher. The instrument was a large cabinet affair. This was the second phonograph stolen from this school in two years.

FARMERS LEARN OF REAL VALUE OF COW TESTING

Selection of Sires and Proper Feeding Also Stress ed at Institute

BY W. F. WINSEY

Black Creek—As a result of hearing the plain common-sense argument of C. S. Ristow at the farmers' institute here Thursday, farmers not already doing so will begin testing their cows for production, feeding according to production, weeding out poor cows, selecting herd sires that can raise the production of daughters above their dams, and saving their milk checks by raising all the feed needed.

Mr. Ristow is a practical dairy farmer of Black River Falls, who has developed a Guernsey herd of excellent production. He is a member of the farm institute staff of the college of agriculture.

One hundred fifty farmers and their wives attended the institute this morning and 200 in the afternoon. Nearly all of them took an active part in the discussions. The agricultural and general science classes of the local school, in charge of their instructor, H. E. Donaldson, also were present. After Mr. Ristow's talk in the afternoon, the farm women withdrew from the auditorium and joined 50 other women and school girls in the village hall where Miss Harriet Thompson and Mrs. L. D. Hopkins, Home Economics' Extension agents of Outagamie and Brown-counties, respectively, conducted the women's program of the fair institute.

The stage of the auditorium was decorated with farm institute posters designed, constructed, and set up in competition by 14 rural schools under the supervision of Mrs. Harvey Grupman.

The judges of the poster contest were County Agent G. A. Sell, and Institute conductors, C. S. Ristow and G. M. Briggs, College of Agriculture. The judges gave out the advance information that the entries were very creditable and that the competition was close.

Offer Musical Program

Exceedingly popular features of the entertainment part of the program were vocal and guitar duets by Misses Carolyn and Rosella Schwister, and a mouth organ solo by Mrs. Elizabeth Huhn.

The Home Economics' program conducted by Miss Thompson and Mrs. Hopkins in the Black Creek village hall was a repetition of their Hortonville institute program, and consisted of a demonstration of canning chicken and rabbit with a steam pressure cooker and tin cans.

For killing noxious weeds on the farms, Mr. Briggs recommended beside the cultivator, the hoe and the scythe, thick stands of alfalfa, the sulky spring tooth harrow, and sodium chloride for such persistent weeds as Canada thistles and poison ivy. To kill quack grass he recommended using the spring tooth on stubble fields in both directions until all the roots are brought to the surface and dried in the sun or frozen in winter on the surface.

Advise Sodium Chlorate

He urged the use of sodium chloride on Canada thistles at blossoming time at the rate of one gallon of the solution per square rod and said the chemicals pass down through the stalk and roots and kills the plant once for all. He advised piling orders for the chemical and buying in large quantities to get the best prices.

Mr. Sell pointed out in a lengthy talk the best commercial fertilizer mixtures for corn, cabbage, potatoes, peas and small grain and for the different kinds of soils. He advised lime if needed and phosphate for alfalfa, potash for sandy and muck soils and phosphate for heavy clay soils. He distributed lists of fertilizer mixtures selected for each kind of Outagamie soil and for each kind of crop. He discussed and compared, drilling and broadcasting fertilizers and showed the advantage of each process. Questioning the audience, he found that most of the farmers present were using commercial fertilizers on corn and cabbage and that very few were using it on small grain. He gave examples of heavy yields of small grain raised last year on worn out soils in Outagamie county by the use of commercial fertilizers and predicted that in five years' time most of the farmers would be using commercial fertilizers on small grain.

"Try to milk less cows and better cows, save feed, get rid of so much work and get more milk," Mr. Ristow advised. "If we had more cow testing associations, we would have less cows and we would make more money. Get the production record of the dam, before buying a herd sire. Be sure to get a good animal even if you have to buy a grade. Let the county agent assist you in the purchase. Having cows that produce from 300 to 400 pounds of butterfat, the owner must be very careful in the choice of a sire to head his herd."

Charges Faced by Grocer

The two counts against Grocer Norris, now a resident of Enid, Okla., follow:

1. That Norris testified that he had received no money or anything of value and had no assurance of money or other support for becoming a candidate for United States senator that he did not know of George W. Norris of Broken Bow.

2. That Seymour testified that he had taken part in no conferences relating to any political situation in Nebraska concerning candidates for the United States senate.

3. That Seymour testified that with regard to the candidacy of George W. Norris of Broken Bow for the United States senate that he did not know of George W. Norris of Broken Bow until he saw Norris' filing announced in the newspapers and had no information concerning Norris of Broken Bow in the newspapers.

4. That Seymour testified that he did not know anything about the filing of Norris of Broken Bow, meaning that at the time the application for Norris was filed in the office of the secretary of state and thereafter to the date of giving of testimony (July 21) he had not personally participated in and had no actual personal knowledge of the candidacy of Norris of Broken Bow.

FIRE DESTROYS FARMER'S HOME IN GREENVILLE

Neighbors Form Bucket Brigade in Futile Effort to Save Building

Fire, believed to have started from sparks from the chimney, razed the farm home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Becker, town of Greenville, yesterday morning. The loss has not been estimated.

The flames were discovered at 8:30 by Mr. and Mrs. Becker as they returned to the house from the barn where they had been milking. By noon the house was completely destroyed.

Neighbors formed a volunteer fire brigade and battled the flames by passing buckets of water to the roof. Julius Siebert, one of the neighbors, broke a window in order to get water directly on the flames, and his hand was badly cut. It was necessary to take him to his home where a doctor treated the wounds.

Despite the efforts of the volunteers workers the flames were soon beyond control. While efforts were being made by one group of men to put out the fire, another group of workers carried furniture from the house. Most of the furniture was saved.

The house, owned by Louis Becker, father of Howard Becker, was valued at about $4,000. The loss is partly covered by insurance. Mr. Becker said this morning that no plans had been made for rebuilding.

BABY SUFFERING FROM ECZEMA

Quickly healed by Resinol
"I want you to know how much your wonderful Resinol Ointment has helped my baby. At the age of eight months he developed a case of eczema on his forehead. The skin became so red and sore that people even remarked about it and I hated to take him out. I tried other ointments but none were successful until I tried your Resinol Ointment. After using the contents of one jar and a small amount of the second, his skin was completely healed. I am never without this product." (Signed) - Mrs. Catherine Keefer, Bethlehem, Pa.

Helble Writes Article On Value Of Examinations

An article entitled "What Final Examinations Tell Us," written by Herbert Helble, principal of the Appleton high school, appeared in the January issue of the Wisconsin Journal of Education. In his report he states that recently a committee of six Wisconsin administrators conducted a state-wide survey of final examination questions in English. Their findings and conclusions were the basis of a report made recently to the Wisconsin Association of Secondary School Principals at their annual meeting in Milwaukee. Certain of these conclusions are of more than passing interest to school administrators as well as English instructors.

Questions were collected from 55 junior and senior high schools of Wisconsin of varying size and kind. This was felt to be not only sufficiently large but also representative of the high schools of the entire state. In possession of nearly 16,000 individual examination questions in English, the committee classified them into three groups of grammar, composition, and literature. The conclusion drawn was that there is not much relation between English finals and the objectives of secondary school English as expounded by the authorities on English. After checking 15,000 papers the authorities have concluded that our Wisconsin teachers do not know the generally accepted objectives of English or know them they do not accept them or accepting them they do not put them to use in the classroom.

Another conclusion is that there is little relation of English finals to at least five of the cardinal objectives of secondary education. Few questions of those examined dealt with health, vocation or civic education. Mr. Helble feels that most English teachers think that in a final examination these questions are not to be expected. Statistics show that approximately 55 per cent of all questions collected dealt with literature and 90 per cent with the classics. There is little need for the emphasis on classics as most colleges do not have this as an entrance requirement. Yet so many teachers stress the subject.

Certain weaknesses in conducting this study are evident. The immensity of the task is apparent. A study of this nature involves a great deal of routine drudgery. The journal feels that this article from the pen of Mr. Helble comes at a most opportune time as most schools are holding opinion regarding final examinations.

STALL FED CATTLE STIFFEN BEEF PRICE

Increased prices paid for beef cattle at the stockyards has been reflected in slightly increased price of beef in markets here. An increase in price of beef is usual at this time of the year when the market is depended upon stall-fed cattle and it is probable the price will grow slightly stronger until grass fed cattle return to the market. The increase the last few days has been from 2 to 3 cents a pound at the stockyards.

BUSINESS BRIGHT SPOT

Businessmen and citizens generally were quite gratified and perhaps somewhat surprised when they were told Wednesday by Mark A. Brown, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank of Chicago, that Appleton is one of the two communities in the middle west least affected by the business depression. While people here have liked to believe that this community has weathered the business storm as well or better than others, yet this is the first positive statement by someone who can speak with authority that this is an actual fact.

No doubt there are many causes for the excellent condition of business in Appleton, but Mr. Brown credits it largely to acumen and the foresight of its business people "who remained one jump ahead of their competitors." For business men like them there is no depression, he stated.

Mr. Brown's observations are largely borne out by internal evidence in Appleton. While there is some unemployment due to general business conditions, yet the number of men out of work here is relatively small compared with the great bulk of cities of equal size in the middle west or in the country. Merchants generally are reporting healthy business, probably not up to the peak reached during the period of greatest prosperity in 1929 but comparable with normal times. Theatre attendance, an excellent barometer of the capacity of a community to spend money, is holding up remarkably well and long queues of people standing in line in front of theatre doors is nothing at all unusual.

Mr. Brown sounded a warning note to merchants, manufacturers and business men of all kinds that those who have taken advantage of such recession in business as there was to fortify themselves by improved personnel and service are the ones who will benefit the most in the gradual upturn of business. While not minimizing the seriousness of general business conditions, he presented evidence that should convince the most skeptical that the situation is not nearly as black as the apostles of pessimism preach. His observation that business is rebounding should give encouragement to the timid and the hesitant.

Appleton, as Mr. Brown stated, is fortunate in its manufacturers and business men. Under their leadership this community has suffered very little indeed and is in shape to remain in a commanding position.

QUESTIONS FOR THE COURTS

A newspaper reporter has examined the docket of the United States Supreme court to determine for himself whether the work of that tribunal is as difficult and complex as many would have it. He ascertained that not only complicated but unique matters are to be decided before the court finishes the work of the present term.

For instance, a man by the name of Nickman of Cleveland, Ohio, died from sunstroke. He carried an insurance policy doubling the amount payable to his wife in case his death resulted from accident. She claims that sunstroke is an accident and should be put in the same class with death by lightning. Is it?

Another case involving an accident insurance policy has to do with the attempt to collect $30,000 from an accident insurance company by Mrs. Nannie L. Massie. After shaving one day Mr. Massie noticed a hair on his face, that had gotten under the surface. He pulled it out. Presumably a germ was lurking under his fingernail looking for a chance to get into a good live stream of blood. Poisoning soon developed. He died. Was his death due to an accident?

A man down in Ohio was arrested for taking a bribe. The statute passed by the legislature makes it a criminal offense if one takes, "bills, notes, currency or bonds" as a bribe. This man took a check for $200. What shall the court say? Does a check come within the language mentioned?

After going through the docket carefully the reporter changed his mind. It wasn't so easy to decide all those cases as he had supposed.

THE PRIDE OF STANLEY BALDWIN

Former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin of England has lost his fortune and is proud of it. It disappeared in the decline of the British iron and steel trade. Mr. Baldwin, once a wealthy man, had the opportunity of saving himself by disposing of his interests, but as he says, "Instead, I nailed my colors to the mast of British industry" and went down with it.

This does not seem to be the gesture of a braggart, or a vote-soliciting politician. He apparently is not in the class of those who, in the face of impending disaster, would have unloaded high priced stocks to save himself, thereby passing the loss on to some other unfortunate who had not the knowledge to foretell the catastrophe about to take place. As evidence of his unselfish motives, witness his act in 1919, while financial secretary to the British treasury, of deliberately donating twenty per cent of his personal fortune to help pay the public debt. This gift amounted to $600,000.

Rather was it the act of a man who had ingrained in his blood the traditions of centuries. From the time of Charles II who ruled Britain in the latter part of the seventeenth century, there had been a Baldwin engaged in the iron trade, sometimes having to struggle hard, at other times enjoying prosperity. When the time came for him to meet adversity he held on with the grim determination to sink or swim with the iron business, as had his forebears before him. It is the same traditions and pride and unwritten law that causes a captain to go down with his ship. He "faces the music" and drinks the dregs of the cup of bitterness as if it were sparkling wine.

Tradition and love and respect of ancestors is more ingrained in people of old countries than it is ours. The rapid development of this country, the constant change of location from generation to generation, destroyed the sentimentality of the old home and neighborhood, and the pride which long continued habitation in one place begets. How many people in this country live in the same old homestead occupied by their grandfather, or their father before them? Not many. The march of progress and the rapid growth of cities has turned the old home into the market place. Generations living in the same home or neighborhood instills pride and love of family tradition. The worship of one's Lares and Penates will develop a race of citizens in whose charge the country may well place its trust and faith that the principles on which it is founded will be maintained.

Stanley Baldwin is to be congratulated, and also to be thanked for his example of courage and pride as an inspiration to others. Well may he be classed with Commodore Perry and his immortal words, "Don't give up the ship."

HANCOCK'S BIRTH

On Jan. 23, 1737, John Hancock, an American patriot of the Revolution, president of the Continental Congress, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and the first governor of Massachusetts, was born in Braintree, Mass.

A graduate of Harvard, Hancock served for many years as one of the selectmen of Boston. He first attracted wide attention when he delivered a bold and eloquent address on the fourth anniversary of the Boston massacre.

Appointed a representative of his state in the first Continental Congress, Hancock became its chairman and then president. He resigned this position in 1777 but remained a member of Congress.

In 1780 he was a member of the Constitutional convention of Massachusetts and upon the adoption of the Constitution there was elected first governor of the state, in which position he was retained by annual elections until 1785. After an interval of two years he was again governor from 1787 until his death.

But the biggest explanation due anyone today is whether the Wickerham report was or was not amended at the last minute.

And, now that the Senate is making an inquiry, we probably never will get at the bottom of the matter.

Talk about gratitude. A trio of bandits walked into a filling station to perform their routine work. Said the proprietor, "Have a cigar, I just got married."

THE CURE

She smiled as he passed, and his shoulders went back.

In spite of the year he'd been dressing in black; In spite of the fifty odd years, and the gloom Of night after night in his one little room. She was pretty and youthful, and seeing her smile.

He thought "after all life may still be worth while!"

In spite of his sorrows his head went in air, As smiling and pretty he noticed her there.

And he asked: "May I call?" And she answered: "You may!"

So in spite of the fact that his hair had turned gray.

He chuckled a little and said to himself:

"I'm not old enough yet to be laid on the shelf."

Now the gossips remark there's a match under way,

And they mention the fact that his neckties are gay.

TOMATOES VS. ORANGES

Dr. William Weston, chairman of the section on diseases of children, said in an address before the last annual convention of the national medical association that oranges and tomatoes or their juices are about equal in their Vitamin C value (that is the vitamin which prevents scurvy) but that tomatoes have slightly greater Vitamin A and Vitamin B values than oranges have. This should be reassuring to people who find it difficult to get fresh orange juice for the baby, for tomato juice is quite as valuable in infant feeding.

This noted authority further asserted that both tomatoes and oranges have greater vitamin values when allowed to ripen on the vine or tree than they have when artificially ripened by ethylene gas or by exposure to air and sunlight.

Finally Dr. Weston, who hails from Columbia, S. C., called attention to the large amount of food iodine in tomatoes grown in South Carolina and compared them with oranges in this and other respects. He had no data on the iodine content of oranges grown in California, but he believed it to be low, as it has been invariably found to be in other foods grown in California.

Here is the way Dr. Weston compares tomatoes and oranges:

The table shows parts per million of iodine, iron, manganese and copper, respectively:

Cal. oranges 70.5 7.6 4.75 S. C. tomatoes 106.5 160.0 26.7 15.3

Whether oranges are very low in iodine content or not, they are less than half as rich in iron as tomatoes.

I have heard people solemnly assert that they liked tomatoes. I can't understand it. I've been eating them all my adult life, always hoping that eventually I'd learn to like 'em, but I confess, and I'm a little ashamed of it, too, that I still have to summon all my resolution when I eat tomatoes, which I do whenever they are offered, for the sake of their high vitamin value and their high alkaline value—to balance off my meat.

I can readily understand how a person might prefer a South Carolina tomato to a California November orange. But one of those twenty-ounce February navelas you have to come to Pomona or Riverside to get, is different. If these be low in iodine, who cares—one can get all the iodine one needs in an occasional can of salmon, anywhere, or a shrimp cocktail.

Dr. Weston took one more wicked cry at the golden west before he left the subject of tomatoes and oranges. He declared that infants can take a larger quantity of tomato juice than they can of orange juice, fresh or canned, without manifesting ill effects.

We need not compare tomatoes and oranges in their alkalinizing effects, but if one likes tomatoes and eats them freely there is no other item of diet superior in preventing acidosis.

NEW MEASURE WOULD AFFECT POSTAL JOBS

Maas Seeks to Declare Post Offices Vacant Year After Term Expires

BY RUBY A. BLACK

Post-Crescent Wash. Corrs.

Washington—A bill which would affect several Wisconsin postmasterships has been introduced by Rep. Mel Maas of St. Paul, Minn.

The proposal grows out of a controversy between this Republican congressman and the White House and Post Office department over the reappointment of Postmaster Moos at St. Paul. Rep. Maas will not recommend the reappointment of the postmaster and although the congressman has patronage, the Post Office department will not call for an examination for a successor, and the White House will not send the renomination of the postmaster to the Senate.

Rep. Maas's measure would declare any first class post office vacant one year after a postmaster's term has expired when the postmaster continues in office without appointment or confirmation of the Senate.

While the several Wisconsin situations are not identical with that at St. Paul, they are similar. For example, George H. Herzog's commission as postmaster at Racine expired in January, 1928. He continued to hold the job until Aug. 15, 1930, without reappointment and re-confirmation by the Senate. Last August, George W. Rickeman was appointed acting postmaster and has been serving since Aug. 15, but his name has never been submitted to the Senate. For three years the $6,000 job has been held by unconfirmed postmasters.

In the meanwhile, several examinations had been held without resulting in nominations although resulting in eligible candidates.

Appleton Job Vacant

The $3,800 job as postmaster at Appleton has been technically vacant nearly four years—the regular term of a postmaster—during which time former Postmaster William H. Zuehlke has been serving as acting postmaster. Fred Felix Wettenberg ceased to be postmaster Feb. 17, 1927.

Since that time there have been several examinations, but no nomination has ever been sent to the Senate. Albert C. Rule, Emmeray A. Greunke and Charles D. Thompson are eligible for appointment, having been certified May 27, 1930.

The commission of Postmaster Wallace Pierce as postmaster at Menasha, a $3,800 job, expired Jan. 15, 1930, more than a year ago and he is still holding office. The nomination of Clarence A. Loescher for the job was sent to the Senate Dec. 15, 1930, nine months after he was certified as eligible. The Senate Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads has not reported his nomination to the Senate. Sen. John J. Blaine of Boscoel has laid before the committee letters of opposition to Loescher's appointment and thus it has been held up.

In a statement issued when he introduced the bill, Rep. Maas said:

"To hold a postmaster in office indefinitely after his term has expired without even submitting his name to the Senate for its 'advice and consent' as provided by law is a denial of the Senate's prerogatives and is an unwarranted usurpation of power by the executive branch of the government."

Doubts Justification

"There is no justification for such action. If the Postmaster General does not intend to recommend to the president a postmaster's reappointment, an examination for a new appointment should immediately be called and the vacancy filled as expeditiously as possible. If it is intended to reappoint a postmaster, his name should promptly be sent to the Senate so that body may pass on the appointment."

"The fear that the Senate would not confirm a given appointment is all the more reason for declaring the office vacant. Certainly a year is ample time to investigate any charges as to a postmaster's

Speckled Trout Ascend Streams First In Spring

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

As a rule, speckled trout, because of spawning in November, are first to ascend the streams as warm weather comes. They do it for the reason that they are in search of cold spring water. The rainbow spawns in March, and for that reason start their upward migration later than fontinalis. Both can be taken at times from the same water but rainbow fishing as a rule is best in late season.

Some years ago we made no trips to the Peshtigo river until August, and then we caught rainbows almost exclusively. We fished often at Roaring Rapids. An hour of early morning casting and the same length of time about sundown always yielded us a half dozen or more good specimens per man.

For some reason I am unable as yet to learn, while the rainbow fishing of August in the Peshtigo river was nearly a thing of the past the last few years, the speckled trout have become more plentiful, apparently. At least during the warm months of the last couple summers many fine catches have been made in that water from Boettcher's downstream.

This seems a bit contrary to the general order of things, for with the advent of hot weather one usually does not find trout in heavy water of a main river. There are exceptions to this rule, of course, but when it occurs I believe the temperature of the water governs the action of the fish entirely.

I have fished both Brule rivers, and in the days when the eastern Brule had as many big fish as are now found in the western stream where President Coolidge recently

SEAL SALE RETURNS EXCEED LAST YEAR'S

Although the final check up in the Christmas seal program will not be made until Feb. 1, when final reports go into Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association headquarters, the returns have already exceeded last year's record by over $100. This year's checks total $1,850, while last year the final result was $1,727.

Mrs. L. J. Marshall, chairman of the local drive urges those who still have stamps to send in their checks before Feb. 1, so the final reports can be sent out on time.

With the cooperation of the medical society, a large high school and vocational student clinic will be held in the spring with the funds obtained in the Christmas seal campaign. In addition to the clinic from $150 to $200 will be used to supply milk to needy pupils in the schools and it is probable that the baby clinics will be resumed.

right to reappointment, and after that the Senate should be given the opportunity to decide; otherwise there is certainly the right to assume that the executive has something to conceal from the Senate or he has no confidence in their exercising their constitutional prerogative fairly.

"Anyway, it is high time that this pernicious practice be stopped."

HULL BILL WOULD DOUBLE TAXES ON IMPORTED OIL OLEO

Congress Must Keep Pledge to Farmers, Says Badger Representative

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—Bills to double the tax on oleomargarine made from imported oils have been introduced by Rep. Merlin Hull of Black River Falls.

Because of the ruling of the commissioner of internal revenue that oleomargarine made of palm oil is subject to only the one-fourth cent tax, the Hull bill would make the tax on this particular kind of oleomargarine, which is yellow like butter, exactly 80 times the tax now being imposed.

The Hull bill would put a tax of 20 cents a pound on oleomargarine made from palm oil, coconut oil, soybean oil, and all other imported oils. Almost all oleomargarine, he says, is made of imported oils.

In introducing his bills, Rep. Hull said:

"The original oleomargarine law was passed more than 40 years ago to protect butter from such unfair competition. A tax of 10 cents a pound may have been sufficient at that time.

Equip yourself properly with tapered line and tapered leader. Use small Coachman, Mosquito, Cahill, Red Ant or Jack's Moth as darkness comes on, and if you present them properly, you will get fish.

"Now, new kinds of oleomargarine have been devised, manufactured largely from coconut oil and palm oil and other oils produced in foreign countries at a very low cost.

Through the recent decision of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, the palm oil substitute, colored in close imitation of butter, is taxed only one-fourth of a cent.

Millions of pounds are being sold.

If the intent of Congress is to be carried out, a tax of 20 cents per pound on substitutes made of these foreign oils is necessary.

This Congress is specifically pledged by the campaign promises of 1928 to give the farmers their home markets and put agriculture on a parity with industry. To keep that pledge it must protect dairy products in the home markets. It must levy a tax on foreign oil compounds made in factories high enough to protect the dairy product made in the farmers' creameries.

These bills, introduced Tuesday, were referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, to which Rep. Hull's bills to increase the tariff duty on imported dairy products were referred. It is not likely that the Ways and Means Committee will act on them this session, although Rep. James A. Frear of Hudson is a member of the committee. Because they levy a tax, the bills had to be referred.

RED CROSS CHAPTER STILL SEEKING $1,000

A concerted effort to raise $1,000 during the next few weeks by voluntary subscription is being made by the Outagamie chapter of the American Red Cross, according to red to this committee instead of the Committee on Agriculture, which is now holding hearings on bills to help the dairy industry.

Arthur Jensen, chairman. The national organization has set the country's quota at $1,000 in the national campaign for $10,000,000 to be used in aiding families of unemployed people in drought stricken areas.

Drought areas has more than doubled in 17 days. On Dec. 31 the Red Cross was helping 224,834 persons. Now the total is 517,774, according to word received here from national headquarters.

BURT FISHER,
HARRIET OLDS
WED AT MADISON

The marriage of Miss Harriet Susan Olds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lauren Olds, 608 E. Gorham-st, Madison, and Burt Beck Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Fisher, 416 E. Washington-st, took place at 10:30 Friday morning at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. George E. Hunt, pastor of First Presbyterian church, Madison, performed the ceremony. Miss Katherine Rowland, St. Joseph, Mo., was maid of honor, and Frank Haggerty, Chicago, attended the bridegroom as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of William E. Olds, Lakewood, to about 25 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher will make their home in Chicago where the bridegroom is employed. Among those attending the wedding from Appleton were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Fisher and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Fisher and daughter, Sally, and H. N. Fisher.

Both young people were graduated from the University of Wisconsin, the bride in 1929 and the bridegroom in 1922. Mr. Fisher is member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Bride of Appleton Man

Study Child To Find How To Help Him

BY ANGELO PATRI
TOWN ANGEL HOME DEVIL

Did you ever know a child who behaved like an angel when he, or she, was away from home and quite the contrary sort of angel when he was at home? What makes him behave like that? If he can be good, gentle, well-mannered abroad, why not at home?

Of course there is a reason, but not just one reason for all two-sided children. There is a reason for each child's peculiarities. The child who puzzles us must be studied by himself. What influences him may not touch the next child at all.

Sometimes a child gets very tired being good. It is not reasonable to expect a child to live on an adult standard of manners and morals. He is a stranger to this world and its ways. He has to learn with care and pain, each movement, each attitude, each response. Learning new ways, learning new things, meeting new situations all day long is wearying beyond words. Yet this is what a child faces day by day. And we grow impatient with his clumsy attempts and scold him.

If you have a good-bad child investigate his daily schedule to discover if he has to be good for a long stretch at a time. If the teacher expects him always to be A. If his parents and relatives always expect him to be perfect. If the neighbors always look to him for moral support for their erring children. These are severe drains upon the nervous system of a child. He needs relief and if he cannot get it he will blow up when he reaches a safe place like home. If you find that the child is under such a strain cut down on the number of people, on the hours of duty, on the amount of work he has to do. Give him a chance to play with a hearty group of children.

There are children who are so tired after a day in school, and they may or may not be top pupils, that when they reach home they collapse. The collapse takes the form of a tantrum, of a sulky streak, of a temper spasm. The cause is fatigue. Look well to his diet, his hours of rest, to his companions, to the school program, to the sort of teachers he has. Cut down on the pressure that is upon him. Give him a chance to play in the open, and a chance to laugh.

We're too serious about this matter of growing up. Laughter must have a place in childhood. It must have a place in the hearts and minds of all those who are associated with childhood. There must be room for the nonsense that is so healthy a part of children's growth. I am certain in my own mind that Mother Goose, Lear's Nonsense Rhymes, Funday, puppies, monkeys, parrots, funny-faces, horns, (those that blow) indulgent uncles and aunts, Charlie Chaplin, Santa Claus, do as much or more for children as all our solemn sermonizing.

Lift the pressure from the spirit of childhood and it will be good at home and abroad. It is the overburdened mind and body that rebels. Happy children, never.

CORRINE and Bob gasped as the detective's voice went on. "Harry wants his wife watched, too. I'm putting a man on the case in the next hour. Everyone was busy when Becker came in but we've got the girl traced to that Slade girl's apartment."

"Oh!" Corrine caught her breath on the syllable, and turned quickly to the door. She didn't speak again until she and Bob had left the elevator and were on the street. "So that's Harry's game. He's having me kept under guard so I can't plot anything with Clifford. He doesn't trust me out of his sight! I hate him, Bob. I despise him!"

Her dark eyes were hard as black stones and two angry spots of crimson color flamed in her cheeks. "Oh, I hate him, hate him so!"

"I wouldn't mind the watching, Corrine." Bob's voice was matter-of-fact. "That will prove to Harry that you aren't seeing Clifford. It will help you. And maybe that's what he's trying to do. He doesn't want to lose trust in you."

"If he can't take me at my word, then he needn't bother at all. I'd believe him above everything!"

"Then you still love him, don't you, Corrine?" Bob's voice asked again.

"No! There's a lot of difference between love and trust . . . although you can't have the second without the first." She paused. "Maybe you can. Harry loved me when he didn't trust me. Oh, I don't know what it's all about but I see him now for what he is. A self-satisfied prig! And I wouldn't go back to him for . . . for . . . oh not for anything. I'm through!"

Bob drove Corrine back to Sarah Slade's shut off the motor, and sat talking idly for a few minutes.

Corrine was calmer now. "I oughtn't to be seen with you. You'll be indicted for kidnapping me, I suppose. It's the game that everybody is playing now. Get something on me before I get something on you. Exciting, anyway, but you get tired of playing this kind of tag all the time."

"What are you going to do?" Bob asked the question again.

"Live with Sarah. I can't tell my folks. They'll think that we broke up because of my father's trouble. Maybe I'll tell Ted. He would help me. Men, you see, Bobbie, are so much more understanding than women when the question to be understood is complex. Maybe it's because they haven't such stay-at-home hearts or something."

"But won't your family find out?"

"Maybe they'll be too busy to notice." She had been pulling off her gloves as she talked. Now she gathered them and her pocketbook into one hand, and slipped the other into Bob's. "Thanks a lot for all your help, Bobbie. Bobbie. You're a darling, and I won't forget. Now I must go in."

Bob pressed the slender fingers firmly. "I don't suppose there's anything more I can do to help tonight, is there? I'm taking June to the senior dance . . ."

"Oh, yes, of course. You . . . you had better hurry if you have to get dressed and everything." Even Bob was deserting her, Corinne mused. But she didn't care! Why should she care...

Then suddenly Bob's arms were around her and he was kissing her on her scarlet mouth, hungrily, as though he had waited a long, long time. She pulled herself away, and turned her head. Then she gasped. A man who had come down the steps of Sarah's house was looking at her. And the man was Harry!

SKILLFUL EYE MAKE-UP ADDS TO YOUR BEAUTY

BY ALICIA HART
There are tricks to every trade, and making up the eyes is no exception.

A touch of rouge to the lids, a very gentle touch, may give a healthy glow and make the eyes look bigger. But this must be done skillfully or you will give the impression of inflamed eyes.

As a last finishing touch, a touch of rouge at the very inner corner of the top eye lid often gives the eyes themselves a brilliancy otherwise missed.

Eye shade may do wonders for the very fair, fragile skin. And if you happen to be a red-head, a natural Titian redhead, you may find that you can stand a blue eye shadow twice as thick and twice as effective as your paler sister who has merely blonde hair.

Artists of the stage often do wonders in elongating the appearance of the eye by heavily coloring, in little V-shaped dabs, the lids at the corners of the eye, both by the nose and on the outside of the eye.

All of these tricks are variables. You may find them workable for you and not at all practical for the friend who goes about with you.

Remember that the more obvious your own coloring, the more beautiful, the more of a task you have making them up, for it must be done so subtly. Obvious eye makeup is in twice as bad taste as obvious lipstick and rouge.

If you want to place a bit of brown or mascara at the outer edge of your eyes to elongate them, do it very carefully, with a small brush. If you want to use the eyebrow tone to these important spots, your regular eyebrow pencil may serve you. You must have something smaller at the point than a mere finger to draw these little arrows right. Even when you use your eye shadowing in heavy quantity to give you this color.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

LOVE ELUSIVE WHEN MARRIAGE IS AN ECONOMIC NECESSITY — JULIET DAMSEL WHO WOULD IMITATE SUCCESSFUL RIVAL.

BLUE EYES: You're faced with the necessity of choosing between working for your father who neither loves you nor appreciates you—or waiting anxiously for a rather Luke-warm lover to decide whether he wants to marry you or not.

It seems to me you would be wise to turn your back on both these alternatives. You have no duty toward your father. He has destroyed any claim he might have had upon your affections, or your loyalty. And it would seem quite madness to hope for anything from the young fellow in the case. His family have apparently decided that you won't do and he isn't strong enough to stand up for you, so that is that.

But there is no reason why you shouldn't earn your living. If you went back to your father you'd be working like a slave, without the vestige of wages to cheer you up.

Why not work right where you are and save little each week?

Make yourself independent with your own work and you won't have to be at the beck and call of brutal fathers, or unenthusiastic sweethearts. In other words, you'll be

All the smart young women are wearing snappy jacket suits of light-weight woolen.

The one sketched is just adorable with the bodice of dress in lighter blinding tone.

The pointed treatment of skirt creates a flat slimness through the hips and waist. The snug fit of the skirt is what makes it so popular.

Note the low placement of fullness with three inverted plats at front and one at center-back, which flare in motion.

Style No. 3190 can be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Spanish red tweed in diagonal weave with beige wool jersey bodice is youthfully smart.

Hunter's green wool jersey is sportive, made entirely of the one fabric.

Wool crepe, silk crepe, kasha, cotton crepe and tweed-like rayon crepes are suitable for this chic model that may be worn all through the Spring.

MY NEIGHBOR Says—

When washing olecloth very little soap should be used, as it apt to soak through the cloth and rot it. Use a flannel well wrung out and wipe the floor until it is as dry as you can get it.

It is much better to use a sharp knife rather than scissors when cutting flowers, as the scissors tend to crush the stems.

(Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Newspapers)

standing on your own two feet, and you'll be able to decide when another suitor comes along whether or not you really love him. At present marriage is an economic necessity, and you can never hope to determine whether you're really in love while you have to consider finances so closely.

E. M. C. There are plenty of boys left in the world who will appreciate your good qualities. The trouble is you're so obsessed by the fact that the little Flint has run off with your prize man, that you are apt to consider her a great deal more dashing and popular than she really is.

You observe that she drinks and swears and smokes. So you conclude that the trouble with you lies in the fact that you haven't mastered these fine arts. You watch the Flirt making your favorite boy friend go back on his promises to you—teaching him to unbend all the good resolutions he ever made—and you decide that you were foolish and the Flirt was wise in her methods.

In short you've come to the conclusion that because one girl succeeded where you failed you are fundamentally wrong and she is always right. Whereas if you used your gray matter, it might occur to you that you failed because the he wasn't made of quite the right stuff for you. It had been just the exactly right man, he'd have stuck to you because your qualities suited him down to the ground.

Obviously, however, the Flirt is more the sort he really wants. He has stuck to her long enough to prove this, and it's useless for you to imitate her in the vain hope of winning him back. You may give a good impersonation of her, but you can't be like her really. You're entirely different from her and always will be, no matter what rigid training you make yourself undergo.

Don't be silly. Do you think the Flirt, if she lost a man to you, would thereupon set about copying your methods, mannerisms, etc.? She would not. She would immediately assume that the man she lost wasn't worth her trouble, if he fell for you. Because she has a great deal more confidence in herself than you have, she impresses you. Well, you get a little confidence in yourself and you'll be able to stand up to her. Yes, and you'll gain some of your own self-respect back if you stick to your guns, stand up for what is best and truest in yourself and refuse to let one unhappy love affair change your whole character.

ROBIN: You've found out that the cave-man stuff is ancient balderdash, and it serves you right. You should never have treated your fair lady so cavalierly and the sooner you apologize the better for your romance and your disposition.

ANNUAL REPORT IS SUBMITTED BY LIBRARIAN

Construction of Children's Room Considered Best Achievement of Year

Menasha—Construction of the new children's room is the greatest achievement of the library board during the past year, according to the thirty-fourth annual report on Elsha D. Smith library by Miss Harriet Northrup, librarian.

Final acceptance of the building, built by C. R. Meyer and Sons company of Oshkosh at a cost of about $20,000, was made by the library board Wednesday evening. Books and equipment will be arranged in the new quarters early next week.

The children's room had been planned since 1930, and a fund for its construction was started at that time. Open house, to permit general inspection of the new rooms, will be arranged when the addition is available for use.

Circulation at the library during the past year totalled 83,181 books, a gain in books circulated from the library proper 1,474 over the previous year.

Aided Many Students

The number of students assisted totalled 1,442. The work receives particular attention from library authorities, the report pointed out.

The number of books repaired was 4,522, and 13,175 visitors utilized reading room facilities.

Circulation at the schools was 12,151 books.

Several changes in the library board were made during 1930. Mrs. T. E. McGilligan was appointed early in the year and Hugh Gear was named president after the death of J. M. Pleasant. Harry DeWolf was elected vice president and Cyril Penrhron selected by the common council to fill the board vacancy.

Miss Harriet Northrup, librarian, who has been absent from the library for 10 weeks due to ill health, is expected to return shortly. Miss John McCollum began work as a full time assistant on Oct. 1, and Miss Eva Clinton was secured to work during the absence of Miss Northrup.

The report lists a number of social activities held in the library building or conducted by library officials during the year and expresses appreciation for the courtesy extended by patrons.

PAY ROLL TOTALS $3,500,000 IN '30

Statistics on Menasha Are Presented by Mayor in Radio Address

Menasha—The pay roll of industrial institutions in Menasha during 1930 totalled approximately $3,500,000, according to statistics listed by Mayor N. G. Remmel in a radio talk over station WHBY Thursday evening. Industrial sales aggregated about $14,500,000.

The assessed valuation of Menasha property, fixed by city assessors at $12,500,000, was raised by county and state to $16,000,000, the mayor stated. The city has about 10 miles of pavement, 25 miles of sewers, 25 miles of water mains, and eight bridges. It maintains 46 acres of parks, one public hall diamond, 20 acres of skating rinks and two municipal bathing beaches. Attendance at the latter during the past year was over 100,000.

Menasha's water and light department is valued at $1,000,000 and provides electricity for 2,600 consumers and water for 1,900. Building permits in 1930 totalled $335,000.

There are two banks in Menasha with resources of $3,615,000 and deposits of $3,100,000, the mayor pointed out. Attendance at public schools is 1,370 and at parochial schools, 1-338.

HIGH SCHOOL SQUAD READY FOR OCONTO

Caldermen Complete Preparation for Third Conference Cage Tilt

Menasha—Menasha high school basketball team will meet the strong Oconto quint at Oconto tonight. The game will be Menasha's third loop tilt this season.

Although swamped by Oconto at Menasha on Jan. 9, the Caldermen have improved steadily and a closely contested count is expected tonight. A series of hard drills in offensive play has been directed by Coach Cade this week.

Massey and Becker will probably start as guards, with Asmus and Lanzner working at forward. Lopez will play in the pivot position while play is in progress, while Becker is slated to jump for the tip-off. A number of students and Menasha fans will accompany the squad.

OSHKOSH BOWLERS TO MEET MENASHA TEAM

Menasha—The Raoul Hotel bowling team of Oshkosh will meet the Menasha Pickups on Hendy alleys Saturday evening. Two teams from the Gilbert Paper company are scheduled to appear in a similar match Sunday afternoon.

VIEW AIR COMPRESSOR FOR SALE AT DE PERE

Menasha—Mayor N. G. Remmel and Alderman James Baldwin investigated an air compressor for sale at DePere Thursday. They will report to the common council at the next meeting. Purchase of the machine was discussed at Tuesday's council session and again at a committee of the whole meeting Wednesday, but no decision has been reached.

AUTOMOBILE DAMAGED IN CRASH WITH TRUCK

Menasha—A truck driven by Oscar Friedman, 714 E. Atlantic-st, Appleton, and a car driven by A. E. Warren, Menasha, collided at triangle here late Thursday afternoon. MENASHA BANDS IN RADIO BROADCAST

Mayor N. G. Remmel and Alderman T. E. McGilligan Deliver Talks

Menasha—Two Menasha student bands broadcast a program over station WHBY, St. Norbert's college station, DePere, from the Appleton studio Thursday evening from 6 to 7 o'clock.

The championship Menasha high school band of 72 pieces, under the direction of L. E. Kraft, and the St. Mary high school band of 50 pieces, under the direction of the Rev. Joseph Becker, participated.

The program opened with a march played by the high school band which preceded a short talk on "Menasha" by Mayor N. G. Remmel. The Economics club chorus, directed by Mrs. George A. Loescher, sang.

St. Mary high school then played.

An address, "On Wisconsin," was delivered by Alderman T. E. McGilligan.

The program was dedicated to the Wisconsin State High School Band and Orchestra association, headed by J. E. Kliwoski, superintendent of Menasha schools. The state high school band tournament will be held in Menasha May 15 and 16.

PAKALSKI HIGH IN CITY BOWLING LOOP

Menasha—K. Pakalski, bowling with Kenny's Thirsty Five, set the pace in City league bowling on Hendy alleys Thursday evening when he scored a 658 series and high single game of 271. His team won two out of three tilts from the Panta Publishers.

Although the Hendy Recreation team bowled a 2,792 team total, 10 pins more than their opponents, they dropped two out of three games to the Schnitzer Red Tops. The Blue Bills romped to a three-game victory over the Fahrbach Agency by chalkling up a total of 2,878 pins, and Storl's Fives had little trouble in taking three tilts from the Clothes Shop Reglers.

Bowling against the Menasha Hotel bowlers, Acker's Nite Hawks squeezed out three wins by narrow margins and the Rippel Grocers took three games from the Wheeler Transfer team.

The Anderson Cafe squad rolled a 2,855 team total but failed to take more than two of three games from the Gilbert Paper Makers. The Menasha building and supply team won two out of three from the Shell Oils and the Schmitz Brothers team won two out of three tilts from the Marathon Mills bowlers.

NIICOLET TO FEATURE DOORWAYS OF MENASHA

Menasha—A series of full page views showing the "doorways of Menasha" will be one of the features of the Nicolet, annual publication of Menasha high school, according to student authorities.

The doorways of finance will be illustrated by pictures of the two Menasha banks, the doorways to religious activity by views of St. Patrick and St. Thomas church entrances, and to the home by a view of a Menasha residence. The entrance to industry, schools and recreation will be portrayed in the same manner.

CONTINUE TESTIMONY IN SUIT FOR $25,000

Menasha—Defendants' testimony in the $25,000 damage suit of the American Mutual Liability Insurance company of Boston versus Arm. F. Weber and F. F. Stambor in Menasha, was still being heard in circuit court at Oshkosh this morning. The case may not go to the jury until next week.

COUNCIL WILL GET ORDINANCE ON WAGE SCALE

Resolution Setting Standard
Pay Approved by City Aldermen

(Special to Post-Crescent)

New London—At a special meeting of aldermen and representatives of the local labor union Thursday evening at the city hall, a resolution setting the wage scale for work in the city was approved. The scale will be the same as that in force throughout the Fox river valley. This wage will apply to both skilled and unskilled help. An ordinance covering provision of the resolution will be introduced at the next council meeting.

The ordinance will contain a section which will hereafter be incorporated in any contracts entered into between the city and contractors. This section will relate to the employment of local labor whenever available, violation to be punished by fine. The entire ordinance was patterned after that adopted in Sheboygan.

While some of the councilmen are known to be unfavorable to this resolution no one made any energetic protest.

Post-Crescent Skating Turney Will Be Held At Jones Park

CHANGE IS MADE TO INSURE BEST POSSIBLE ICE

Skating Editor Reveals Scarcity of Entries in Many Classes

THE Post-Crescent skating races are going back to the old stand — Jones park rink.

Decision to hold the races at Jones park again this year was reached by the Skating Editor of the Post-Crescent when a survey of general conditions and possible bad breaks in the weather revealed that the Jones rink was the best one after all.

It has been noticed that during the warm days when skating was good on the Jones park rink the First ward school rink usually was covered with water, the result of the direct rays of the sun. Jones park is sheltered from the rays of the sun through most of the day, and can therefore be used on comparatively warm days.

Too, when the weather gets cold and the wind roars down out of the north and west, the fact Jones park rink is protected by the hills on all sides makes it possible for skaters and spectators to keep comparatively warm. So all in all Jones park rink seems to be the best and back to the old stand go the Post-Crescent races.

Rink is Lengthened

The Jones park rink has been lengthened on the south end this winter, and park employees are extending the rink about 10 or 15 feet at the north end. This should give skaters the longest rink they've ever had at Jones park, a situation that makes for ideal racing.

For the last three or four days these columns have told skaters that "the field is wide open" but apparently skaters are a skeptical lot. And now, just to prove that there is a big chance to win in any of the various classes the number of entries in some of them is going to be revealed.

In the junior boy class, there always is a great number of entries. That group has responded satisfactorily. However, in the intermediate boy class there now are but five entries—and only one from Appleton. Of the remaining four, three entries are from Kaukauna and one from Neenah. Looks like the Appleton skating honors for the intermediate boys are going to skaters in other cities.

2 In Senior Men's Race

The senior men's entries so far are two, one from Appleton and one from Neenah. Here it would seem that hockey has taken the interest of the speed skaters. However, there should be time to abandon chasing the rubber for a couple hours to try the dashes and the half mile.

No one has entered in the senior girls' race. Strange, perhaps, but nevertheless a fact. Bluebell Ryan cleaned up the senior women's class last season and is not eligible to compete. That means that any young lady in the city can win the honors in this race. Miss Ryan has again entered in the girl's championship race which she won last year. She is the only entrant.

Miss Mamie Chall is the only girl entered in the junior girl's race. Somehow it seems the fair sex have abandoned skating. But it only goes to prove that the competition isn't going to be keen this winter and that a lot of skaters who have hesitated to enter races can now go out and win a title.

Entries in the races close Wednesday at midnight. That leaves plenty of time to get in under the wire. But rush the blanks along, the Skating Editor likes to gloat over them like a miser counting his money.

Regatta Set for June 17

New York.—(AP)—The Poughkeepsie regatta, most spectacular of the country's rowing classics, will be rowed on the Hudson June 17.

Only once before in the history of the regatta has so early a date been fixed but it was necessary to take advantage of tide conditions that would not be favorable again until July. The 1924 regatta also was rowed on June 17.

Nine crews again are expected to come to the starting line for the four-mile varsity race with representatives from Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Navy, Washington, California, Wisconsin and Massachusetts Institute Technology. Princeton and Stanford also were invited but both probably will decline. Stanford has no crews and Princeton's policy has been against competing in the four-mile grind.

The regatta will precede the annual Yale-Harvard classic at New Haven, where Stanford was champion two years ago.

TAIT LITTMAN READY FOR BIGGEST TEST

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Tait Littman, Cudahy's blonde bludgeoner meets the most important opponent in his brief career tonight. Lou Sezza, fourth ranking light heavyweight, was made a 7 to 5 favorite to win.

Sezza is a veteran campaigner. He will weigh 170 pounds against Littman's 185.

Littman today, however, was confident. With his trainer's development of his left hand, he has picked up aggressiveness. The trainer, Eddie Mitchell, said today that Littman is punching harder than at any time in his career.

In the semi-final, Ray Tramble, Rockford, will meet Frank Battaglia, Winona, in a 10 round bout at 160 pounds.

The coming rowing season will mark the 55th year Richard A. Glendorn has coached the sport at the United States Naval Academy.

SCHAAF, BRADDOCK FEATURE AT GARDEN

Ernie One of Host Effective Youngsters; Jim Idle for 3 Months

New York.—(AP)—Ernie Schaaf, husky boxer heavyweight, returns to Madison Square Garden tonight to batte James J. Braddock, erstwhile light heavyweight contender, in a ten round bout.

Schaaf, one of the most effective of the young heavies, rules an 8 to 5 favorite over Braddock who returns to the ring after a three months' layoff.

The Boston battler in the last year has been upsetting favorites with monotonous regularity. He holds two decisions over Tommy Loughran and outpointed the highly-touted Pacific coast slugger Max Baer, in his last Garden engagement.

Braddock, after fighting his way into a title bout with Loughran in the light heavyweight division and taking a fine boxing lesson for his pains, has deserted the 175-pounds to see how he fares with the heavyweights. Braddock is a slow-mover and a slow puncher but carries a tremendous load of dynamite in his right hand. His most sensational victories as a light heavyweight were knockout triumphs over Gerald Ambrose (Tuffy) Griffiths and Jimmy Slattery.

Bucky Lawless, Syracuse welterweight, meets Sam Bruce, Buffalo Negro, in the ten round semifinal and in the first ten, Nick Testo, Troy, N. Y., middleweight, tangles with Vittorio Lavan of Italy.

For years Dazzy Vance has insisted that DeBerry should catch for him because he had much confidence in the catcher. Vance will miss him and so will Brooklyn, as DeBerry was a student of batsmen and his knowledge of the men on opposing teams was of much help to Vance.

If Lombardi can be accepted as a regular catcher and he probably will be, as Robinson is not afraid to try young catchers when he has the opportunity to coach them, the Brooklyn club will be well fortified behind the bat.

Brooklyn is assured of a very hard batting outfit, good batting catchers and an infield that should hit about ten points better than the infield of 1930. With strength of this kind, the players will start with a rush because they have confidence that they can win just enough more games in 1931 than they did in 1930 to capture the pennant.

EDDIE ANDERSON IS MARRIED IN RING

Omaha, Neb.—(AP)—The right hand of Eddie Anderson, Chicago lightweight boxer, was raised in victory twice in the same ring last night. Anderson and Miss Pauline Matthews of Omaha marched down crowded aisles in evening dress to the strains of wedding music and were married in the ring as "talkie" cameras ground away.

Municipal court Judge John Battin read the service and then raised Anderson's right hand, ancient token of victory in the squared circle.

Anderson embraced his bride and bestowed a kiss upon her.

Anderson is a boxer whose record is 10 wins, 10 losses, 1 draw.

He is the 10th man to be married in the ring since the opening of the new Omaha Civic Auditorium.

U. W. CONSIDERS CONSTRUCTION OF LARGE DORMITORY

Building Would Care for 1,000 Students, According to Plans

MADISON—(AP)—The University of Wisconsin business manager, J. D. Phillips, was preparing today to start an investigation into the feasibility of a proposal by a Chicago company to build a dormitory on the campus large enough to care for 1,000 students. The idea was given to the board of regents at its meeting here yesterday, and Mr. Phillips was designated to study the project.

It was announced the firm plans similar projects at the universities of Illinois and Michigan, and President Glenn Frank informed the board that it was the second such proposal received here.

The regents debated nearly one and one-half hours yesterday regarding the new U. S. Forest Products laboratory here, and then authorized the transfer of the deed of land selected to the government after the executive committee of the board makes arrangements on maintenance. It had followed a similar procedure at a previous meeting.

The committee must unfold an apparent misunderstanding about maintenance, Judge A. C. Backus, Milwaukee, saying he had conferred with President Hoover and saw the bill providing for the laboratory which says the government intends to maintain the building. Harry L. Butler, Madison, on the other hand, said H. P. Winslow, director of the laboratory, understood that the university is to provide $20,000 for annual maintenance.

The board approved construction of a livestock research building to cost $22,000, and also formally appointed Chris L. Christiansen, who has been secretary of the Federal Farm board, as dean of the college of agriculture. The appointment leaves only the deanship of the law school unfilled, and Mr. Butler said this action may come March 4.

A suggestion that two children of W. T. Purdy, author of "On Wisconsin," nationally known university song, receive scholarships at Wisconsin was referred by the board to the committee on student loans and scholarships. The scholarships would be $300 each year for four years.

SENATE GIVES APPROVAL TO FUND MEASURE

Passes $125,000,000 Deficiency Bill to Help Relief Program

Washington—(P)—A cheerster prospect greeted today President Hoover's plans for unemployment and drought relief.

In a burst of speed, the senate passed yesterday a deficiency appropriation bill which will make $125,000,000 available immediately, much of it useful in furnishing employment and in aiding drought sufferers. The bill had to go back to the house for consideration of amendments, among them a $3,000,000 fund for medical supplies to be sent into the drought areas.

For the time being, at least, the $25,000,000 fund proposed by the senate as an appropriation to the Red Cross for feeding hungry persons all over the country, was shelved. In the house a plan to hold hearings on the proposal was seen as a means of giving the Red Cross time to wind up its drive for $10,000,000 in popular subscriptions. This has been delayed, the relief organization officials maintain, by the shadow of the congressional proposal.

Whether the senate, which after passing two appropriation bills in as many days, devoted itself to the agriculture department supply measure, would continue its speed in the face of any long house delay in considering the food fund, was uncertain. But at present the jam which has held up legislation in the senate appeared to be breaking.

The agriculture bill carries a substantial fund for immediate road work as well as the routine funds for its numerous activities.

The deficiency bill passed yesterday will, in the view of Chairman Jones of the senate appropriations committee, furnish employment for more than 30,000 workers. He accepted the medical supplies amendment on urgent pleas by senators from Kentucky and Arkansas. The proposal had the approval also of the agriculture committee.

Some of the other amendments, however, may be less acceptable to the house. More than $20,000,000 was added for public works on Indian reservations and in the army and navy. A fund of $1,000,000 was added to carry out provisions of the maternity Aid act recently passed by the senate, which is to be brought up shortly in the house. The senate added also $40,000 to aid operation of the new Wagner act for collection of employment statistics.

Although slowly, the Red Cross was going ahead in its fund raising. Yesterday the $1,000,000 mark was passed. Meanwhile a survey by a group reporting to the president's emergency committee for employment said $1,231,200,000 of construction all over the country was up to the stage of contract letting and final drafting, while another $1,821,800,000 was in preliminary stages. This included federal and state building, hospital churches and municipal construction. Some highway work also was included.

MANUFACTURERS FROWN ON SPECIAL SESSION

Madison—(P)—The Wisconsin Manufacturers' association was on record today as opposing a special session of Congress.

The association passed a resolution urging the state's representatives in Congress as well as national leaders of the principal political parties to dispose of legislation now in order to avoid a special session.

"Our inquiries indicate that it is the universal belief of business men in the middle west that a special session of Congress would further dislocate and disorganize business and seriously retard normal recovery by creating uncertainty and disseminating an atmosphere of pessimism and gloom which would no doubt accompany the consideration of additional governmental relief measures," the resolution said in part.

The manufacturers said it was their conviction that business recovery is impossible until federal, state and local legislative bodies avoid the consideration of disturbing legislation" at this time.

ROBOT PILOT
London—A robot airplane pilot has been successfully tested here which is said to operate more precisely than the most skilled human flyer. The control depends for its sense of direction and level on a gyroscope driven by compressed air. Any deviation from level flight in a straight course causes the gyroscope to operate valves and pistons which, in turn, manipulate the controls.

With Einstein smiling at his side, Professor St. John explained special theory of relativity at the University club here. St. John said:

"Landmarks in the field of science, marking our progress through the ages, are:

"First—the Copernican system that accounts for the complicated motions of the planets as seen from the earth."

"Second—the Newtonian law of gravitation that placed the physical world under the reign of a universal law."

"Third—the theory of evolution by Darwin and Wallace by which we trace our descent."

"Fourth—and such a landmark is the theory of relativity, but whence it will lead no man knoweth."

"The Ptolemaic system, ruling thought for eighteen hundred years, was overthrown by the deviation of Mars. 'Out of these 8 minutes,' said Kepler, 'we will construct a new theory that will explain the motions of all planets.' That was done by Newton."

"As Tycho's 8 minutes of the arc of Mars, in the hands of Copernicus, Kepler, and Newton, revolutionized the age old medieval conceptions, so the 43 minutes of anomaly of Mercury in the hands of Einstein have revolutionized the conception of Newton."

St. John told how for 100 years the Newtonian theory was accepted as explaining the orbits of planets and how Leverrier called attention to the fact that the planet Mercury was not obeying Newton's law, that its behavior was peculiar.

For another 100 years, said St. John, astronomers were puzzled at this, until Einstein pronounced his special theory of relativity. And Mercury's actions were found to conform to Einstein's law.

It was St. John, at Mount Wilson Observatory who established one of the astronomical proofs of the theory of relativity. One of Einstein's chief desires in coming to California was to confer with St. John and Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of the Mount Wilson observatory, who established another proof.

He has spent many days with them, and they have attended many of the classes with him here, in which Berlin professor appears as a student.

"I came to listen not to talk," said Einstein.

The flexible plans of Dr. Albert Einstein have been stretched to include a stay of 12 weeks here.

On the Air Tonight By the Associated Press

Lois Bennett, soprano, accompanied by a male quartet, will sing Massenet's dramatic lament, "Djedger," during the broadcast over WTMJ and the NEC stations at 9 o'clock.

Otto Von Siecloff and his "Imperialists" will be heard in an orchestral broadcast direct from the Milwaukee Athletic club over WISN at 7 p.m.

Grand Opera Miniatures of the Columbia network, featuring the overture and two arias for Verdi's opera, "The Force of Destiny," will be heard over WISN at 7:15 o'clock.

Jessica Dragonette, lyric soprano, will sing "Cebestraum" by Franz Liszt and "Viviane" by Padilla at 7 p.m. over WTMJ and NEC stations.

Another ten minute laugh-provoking talk by Irvin S. Cobb is scheduled at 8:30 o'clock over WTMJ and NEC stations.

"My Temptation," a European novella and a quartet rendition of "Smiles," song hit of 1918, will feature the broadcast at 7:30 p.m. over WMAQ and CBS stations.

The "California Melodies" program is scheduled for 10 o'clock to be followed by a half hour later by Romanoff and his orchestra. Both are on WISN and a Columbia network.

Frances Williams, Charleston pioneer, star of three editions of "Scandals," and leading light of the current "The New Yorkers" will sing.

The object of such surveys, which are now or will soon be underway in other parts of the country, is similar to that of the efforts of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce to aid American business to eliminate merchandising wastes due to faulty marketing, which plays a large part in our estimated $10,000,000 annual distributing waste.

Other cities listed for visit are Chicago, Saginaw, Springfield, Terre Haute, Toledo, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Detroit, Flint, Fort Wayne, Frankfort, Grand Rapids, Indianapolis, Louisville, Paducah and Port Huron.

The three field men will form contacts with trades and industries and will gather information concerning furniture markets and manufacture. They will spend several days in each of a number of cities, including the four Badger cities mentioned.

Complete data on furniture and its place in the economic life of the region will be the first step. Later, other important commodities will be taken up in turn, and results of the surveys will be published in sections as they are completed.

4 Landmarks Of Science Pictured By Astronomer

Pasadena, Calif.—(P)—Four great landmarks in science, with Albert Einstein pictured as the leader of the fourth step, are set forth by Professor Albert St. John, veteran astronomer at Mount Wilson laboratory.

With Einstein smiling at his side, Professor St. John explained special theory of relativity at the University club here. St. John said:

"Landmarks in the field of science, marking our progress through the ages, are:

"First—the Copernican system that accounts for the complicated motions of the planets as seen from the earth."

TELEPHONES TO ROME AS DAUGHTER IS HURT

Washington—(P)—Even the speed of the transatlantic telephone could not beat Vice Consul Donald C. Wilcox of the American consulate in Rome.

Claude Watkins of Maysville, Ky., picked up his paper and saw a Rome dispatch that his daughter had been injured in an automobile accident. He reached for his telephone and called the Italian capital.

Yes, said Mr. Wilcox, he knew about it. Miss Watkins was not badly hurt and she would receive his personal attention. Watkins wrote the state department and notation of efficiency blossomed forth on the records next to Wilcox's name.

Sen. John Cashman presented a petition from the Two Rivers city council for the repeal of the small loans act while a petition signed by Erick broders are recommended for Georgia poultry raisers by the state college of agriculture.

MANITOWOC RESIDENTS WANT NEW OLEO BILL

Madison—(P)—Manitowoc residents today had petitions concerning the small loans act and the sale of oleomargarine on file in the state legislature.

Sen. John Cashman presented a petition from the Two Rivers city council for the repeal of the small loans act while a petition signed by a score of county residents asked for restrictions on oleomargarine.

Citizens of Fond du Lac county also urged legislation on oleomargarine through a petition.

Most of the petitions being presented on the subject of oleomargarine protest the sale of the product in the color of butter.

LOWER PRICED STOCKS SOUGHT BY INVESTORS

High Income Return Also Demanded by Public at Present Time

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York.—The fashion in speculative and investment stocks today call for a low price in dollars or a high income return. This contrasts with the market styles most popular in 1929, when the public centered its attention on "blue chips" and was not at all particular about the return on its capital.

One of the most striking developments in the recent stock market has been the demand on brokers for lists of low priced shares. This reflects a reaction from a market condition where depreciation in dollars was greatest in the favorites of two years ago. It also indicates the caution of purchasers of stocks in the matter of limiting their commitments to issues that are now so low that it is reasonable to expect they will not decline much further. Advantage of this demand has been taken by several fixed trusts whose portfolios have been made up largely of stocks selling below $30 a share.

A list of stocks from which the present analysis has been made was prepared by a New York stock exchange firm. It includes twenty-two issues selling between $4 and about $10 a share and 28 stocks whose current prices range from around $10 a share to $20 a share.

Lists Comparative Prices
In both groups comparative quotations between the high prices of 1929 and 1930 and present ones are given. These have been reduced by the writer to averages for the various periods for the two different sets of stocks.

In the first group the average market value of the twenty-two issues, at their top in 1929, was $37 a share. In 1930, presumably in the spring boom, the high average was $24 a share. Today it is $8 a share. In dropping from the high average of 1929 to that of the present time, these 22 stocks have had an average loss of about 80 per cent. Only six of the 22 stocks are now paying dividends. The average yield on them is 7½ per cent. The most extreme changes in this list are those of Columbia Graphophone, which has dropped from its high of $82 to about $8, and in Cofey, from above $2 to the present figure of around $9 a share.

In the second group of stocks, selling approximately between $10 and $20 a share, its 28 members touched a high average of $57 a share in 1929, dropped to an average of $40 a share which represented their high in 1930, and are now quoted at an average of $15 a share.

Drop Is Fast
The average depreciation in the market price of these 28 stocks has been 73 per cent, or slightly less than that in the lower priced list. In this first group 21 stocks are still paying dividends. The average yield on the dividend payers is 10 per cent. It is within this classification that the best public demand for low priced issues is now to be found.

The extreme declines in the second group from the 1929 high have occurred in Chrysler, which has fallen from 135 to about 17, Montgomery Ward from approximately 157 to 17 and Radio Corporation from about 115 to 13. The average decline of 120 points in these three issues exceeds that of the two groups as a whole, in amounting to 90 per cent.

The public demand reaches into higher price areas than those represented in this analysis. It is quite strong for stocks ranging from $20 a share to $35 a share. This includes a number of the prominent copper, oil and motor stocks which show a high percentage of depreciation from their 1929 levels but whose present dividends seem to represent about the maximum readjustment to lower earnings and which afford high income returns. Above $35 a share and up to $50 a share, demand tapers off sharply and comes from quite a different class of buyers than those who are now specializing in extremely low priced stocks out of which they expect to realize a high percentage of appreciation in the next few years.

REILLY SEES START OF END OF PROHIBITION

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—While drys are halting the general recommendations of the Wickersham commission, Rep. Michael K. Reilly of Fond du Lac, new wet Democratic congressman from Wisconsin, asserts that the report "constitutes the beginning of the end of national prohibition."

"This report," he said, "written by a committee of high standing, after a long investigation, constitutes a terrific indictment of the workings and workability of their so-called 'noble experiment' and tells the lurid story of the wreck and ruin that it has brought to our country."

"This report is remarkable for the fact that a majority of this commission were at one time undoubtedly favorable to national prohibition. It is pleasing, for those opposed to national prohibition, to note that the one lone woman on this committee, Miss Ada Comstock, a famous educator, turns with disgust from national prohibition and joins with six other members of the commission in asking that the effort to make this country temperate by the flat of law be abandoned."

LIQUOR REPORT TO HELP SHAPE PARTY PLANKS

Wickersham Findings Will Provide Plenty of Political Ammunition

BY DALE LAWRENCE

Copyright 1931 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—(CFA)—Political ammunition galore is contained in the Wickersham report. Wetts and drys are perusing it and the prospects are that, on account of President Hoover's announced position in his message which is being construed as opposition to the Wickersham report, the Democrats will try to adopt as their platform some of the main proposals of the commission.

Within the last 24 hours the president's friends have been busy trying to explain the wording of his message to congress and are now declaring that his mind is "open" on the idea of revision and that all he objected to was the specific form of revision suggested by the Wickersham commission.

If this proves ultimately to be Mr. Hoover's attitude then the Republicans national platform will undoubtedly embrace the principle of revising the eighteenth amendment. The debate then will range on what form of revision shall be approved by the people in an amendment to substitute for the eighteenth amendment.

The extremely drys naturally hope to keep Mr. Hoover on their side of fence, namely, an uncompromising attitude toward any change or modification in the language of the eighteenth amendment. The very fact that friends of the president are saying that his message is being misconstrued, together with reports from several eastern states indicating difficulties in the national convention, would appear to dispose of any thought of keeping the president on the extreme dry side.

Helps Democrats

The plain truth is that the Democrats see a tactical advantage if Mr. Hoover refuses to go along with the Wickersham commission in its basic recommendation that a further trial does not prove satisfactory the eighteenth amendment be revised.

The Democrats are rallying around the Anderson proposal, which apparently has behind it at least six members out of the eleven. Although many objections will naturally be voiced to that proposal and even the Democrats will be wary about accepting it, because any definite formula is difficult to handle in a campaign, the Democratic strategy is easy to see. They will continue to back up the Wickersham report knowing full well that the Republicans are embarrassed by the attitude of the president.

As for any practical result from the political discussion, most everybody who is familiar with legislative processes realizes that no action of any kind on constitutional change is likely for another five years. Thus the Wickersham report becomes the basis for the 1932 campaign.

There are many parts of the report, however, which the Republican platform could accept, such as the provisions relating to better enforcement, whereas the Democrats can also point to other portions of the report that show inadequate enforcement and charge the Republican administration with having neglected to do their duty.

The Wickersham report is long enough and sufficiently comprehensive on so many different phases of prohibition that all sides can derive comfort out of it and can use it to emphasize their own propaganda. Already the discussion in Congress has begun but it is not likely to get very far in the present session, though congressional commissions are likely to pursue the investigation and keep the subject uppermost in the public mind. The wetts have everything to gain by continued agitation and they have not failed to pursue that policy in the last two years.

From a political point of view, Mr. Hoover's message is being defended in some quarters on the ground that it was obvious the Democrats would take the wetter side of the argument in 1932 and that it was up to the president to consolidate the drys who have always been the backbone of the Republican party, particularly in the rural sections of the northern states.

It is argued too that in the presidential election a Republican candidate who can be sure of the rural districts on the prohibition issue may draw to his side the urban vote on economic questions. Thus if the business situation has improved materially many Republican voters will be influenced very largely by those considerations instead of prohibition.

Although it is expected that the president will lean toward revision and make a statement to that effect between now and the 1932 convention, his message indicates that he is going to try to hold as far as possible to the dry side of the controversy.

BUDGET MESSAGE DUE TUESDAY OR WEDNESDAY

MADISON—(P)—Gov. LaFollette's budget message to the legislature will be delivered Tuesday or Wednesday, he said today. The message will deal with all phases of the administration's financial program for the state and will contain the governor's recommendations on appropriation bills. Gov. LaFollette said he was still working out the details of the message.

COP SPANKS DOG AND FINDS WAY TO HOME OF LOST LITTLE GIRL

Milwaukee—(P)—"Josephine, six years old," was all she could tell the officers at the West Side Police station. Her sobs would not be stifled by pastries and playfulness from the circle of blue coats. She could only answer "dunno" to the many questions intended to locate her mama and papa, until:

A little black dog wiggled in. He bounded to Josephine. His tail wagged joyously. Her tears stopped. "Grr" commanded Motorcycle Officer Clifford Gosch, spanking the dog lightly. The dog "got."

Gosch followed. Tears again welled to Josephine's eyes.

The little dog ran three or four blocks. He turned often to find he was still pursued. He hid in a kennel behind a tenth-st home.

"That," muttered Gosch, "is service." He conferred a minute with Mrs. John Heffner. They went to the station. Today Josephine, six years old, has only pleasant memories of the cop that spanked her doggie.

CONSTANCE BENNETT SIGNS NEW CONTRACT

Hollywood, Calif.—(P)—Constance Bennett, blonde film star, will receive more than $800 each working hour under a contract she signed to day to make two pictures for Warner Brothers.

Miss Bennett is under contract to Pathé until 1934, but she is allowed ten weeks off each year. Warner brothers agreed to pay her $800,000 for the ten weeks, the agreement stipulating she work six hours a day, six days a week.

SAYS SYS-TONE Is Worth $100 Per Bottle

Claims SYS-TONE Was Only Medicine to Help His Little Girl

Your Sys-tone has helped our little girl, Gertrude Louise, age seven years, so much that I would gladly have paid $100.00 per bottle for it." Such was the gratifying statement of Mr. Charles Waterbury, 628 East Court Avenue, Jefferson, Indiana, when he called to see the Sys-Tone Representative recently.

Mr. Waterbury, who is employed by the Big Four Railroad Company, is well known in Jefferson, having lived there for the past twenty years.

"About two years ago," continued Mr. Waterbury, "Our little girl had a bad case of the measles which left her with a bad case of bronchial trouble, which developed into a dry, hacking cough. She lost in weight until she was just a shadow. She could not even sleep at night and was so nervous that she could not keep still and never ate enough to keep a bird alive. We were doing everything we could for her, but nothing helped her until we heard of Sys-Tone and we started giving her this treatment several weeks ago and she improved from the start and today she is like a different child. She does not cough at all during the night and sleeps fine. Has a wonderful appetite and is gaining weight every day. My wife says it is simply wonderful to see how she improves every day and we gladly tell everyone how Sys-Tone has restored our little daughter to good health.

For a practical result from the political discussion, most everybody who is familiar with legislative processes realizes that no action of any kind on constitutional change is likely for another five years. Thus the Wickersham report becomes the basis for the 1932 campaign.

There are many parts of the report, however, which the Republican platform could accept, such as the provisions relating to better enforcement, whereas the Democrats can also point to other portions of the report that show inadequate enforcement and charge the Republican administration with having neglected to do their duty.

LIFETIME IN JAIL
London—James Duggan's life, ever since he was 22, has been spent for the most part in jail. Recently captured after robbery here, it was revealed that 40 years of his life have been spent in various prisons in England. He is regarded as one of the most skillful thieves in the country. He is an excellent Latin and Greek student. After his recent escape he was sentenced for two more years.

OPTIMISM RUNS HIGH AS STOCK MART RALLIES

Shares Continue Recovery in Brisk Trading on Wall Street

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor

New York—(P)—The revolt against pessimism made further gains in the financial markets today.

Shares continued to recover in brisk trading, and bonds again reflected the salutary influence of a favorable credit position. While the rally in shares is described by most observers as primarily a technical correction of an oversold condition, expressions of mild optimism from high financial sources obviously bolstered the better feeling which the improvement of the market has engendered.

A news ticker report that Bethlehem Steel directors are likely to declare the regular dividend when they meet next week carried that issue up 2 points. Speculation for the rise appeared in some of the utilities, and Electric Power and Light gained 2. Northern American rose as much. Other shares advancing 2 or more included several of the Chemicals, Dupont, Air Reduction, and U. S. Industrial Alcohol. American Can, American Smelting, Atchison also gained 2. Eastman, Allied Chemical and Norfolk and Western were volatile issues rising about 4 to 5. More than two scores, including Am. Pow. and L., gained 2.50 to 7.50. Am. Rad. St. San. and Am. Rep. were the better, feeling which the improvement of the market has engendered.

Packers claimed 3,222 lambs on direct consignment, leaving about 8,500 sheep and lambs on sale in the stocks. Normal buying support from outsiders was relied upon by sellers to hold prices steady.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK
Chicago—(P)—Hogs, 45,000 including 20,000 direct; slow, steady to 10 lower; bulk 130-210 lbs 7.80-$1.50; top 8.25; 130-220 lbs 7.20-7.30; pigs 7.50-8.15; packing sows 6.40-6.75.

CORN SUBMITS TO SETBACKS; WHEAT LOWER

Former Grain Drops More Than 1 1-2 Cents a Bushel Late Today

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago—(P)—Corn underwent setbacks of more than 1 1-2 a bushel late today, and dragged wheat down. Stop-loss selling took place, influenced by a trade digest which said that barring crop failure or war conditions world prices of major farm products would at best rule but slightly higher than current levels, and that no general increase of farm land values was looked for.

Wheat, fairly well distributed and prices were steady with the average of the previous day. Lights of choice quality made $8.25 and 220-lb. hogs went at $7.90.

Little interest was displayed by regular buyers in the cattle offerings, which were few in number and poor in quality. Calf receipts have fallen off nearly 2,000 head this week and prices have been well sustained on the choice weighty steers.

Packers claimed 3,222 lambs on direct consignment, leaving about 8,500 sheep and lambs on sale in the stocks. Normal buying support from outsiders was relied upon by sellers to hold prices steady.

APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

KAUKAUNA FIVE
MEETS NEENAH
THIS EVENING

Little Squad Hopes to Give State Champions Close Game

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school cagers will meet Neenah high school in a Northern Wisconsin Interscholastic league game at the high school auditorium at 8:15 Friday evening. The game is expected to be close, as Kaukauna is represented by one of the strongest quints in several years while the Neenah aggregation was the state champion ship last year.

Neenah is tied for first place in the league with Oconto, Kewaunee, and Sturgeon Bay. Last week Kaukauna lost a thrilling game to Two Rivers, 13 to 17. Neenah won a game equally thrilling from New London, 17 to 15. Kaukauna has improved with each game and will put up a strong defense for the fast traveling Neenah squad.

Kaukauna has won one and lost one game in the league this season. Neenah has won two. Last year Neenah gave the Kaws the worst trouncing ever received in basketball, 33 to 0. Coach Paul Little's team is much stronger this year.

The local line-up will include Koch at center, Sager and Schinderman at forwards, Farwell and VanLieshout at guards. In reserve there will be Luedtke, A. VanDyke, and Rabideau.

Kaukauna Golfers Work Out On Indoor Course

Kaukauna—Golfers have worked out a plan that will give them an opportunity to get rid of excess energy until the golf course is reopened in the spring. At the direction of some of the more ardent players, the basement of the Royal Clothing store has been transformed into a driving course.

The course was built under direction of Martin Heindel, green keeper at the Kaukauna golf course, and was completed this week. Golfers are enjoying the sport keenly as they drive into the large canvas.

LIBRARY RECEIVES NEW LIST OF BOOKS

Fiction and Non-fiction Volumes Included in Latest Shipment

Kaukauna—New books of fiction and non-fiction have been put into circulation at the public library, according to Miss Bernice Happer, librarian. Included in the new shipment are 42 German books from the Wisconsin Free Library commission.

Non-fiction books are:

"Psychology from the Standpoint of a Behaviorist," by Watson. This is an authoritative and interesting treatment of personality and emotional expression from the behaviorist point of view.

"Wisconsin Writers," by W. A. Titus of Fond du Lac. This book forms an anthology of the works of the best known of Wisconsin authors. Biographical sketches and selections from published works of the writers are given.

"When You go to Europe," by Peter is an interesting book written at the request of 25 steamship companies who wanted a book which would outline all matters necessary for the tourist to know. It is excellent for those planning a trip to Europe.

"Second Twenty Years at Hull-House," by Addams. In this volume Miss Addams brings the story of Hull-House down to date by giving outstanding events and interesting experiences that have centered about recent measures and events.

"Contract at a Glance," by Whitehead is an excellent book for auction players turning to contract.

Fiction books included, "Heroines of the Prairies," by Hargreaves, "Of the Human Bondage," by Maugham, "Sun-upon the Range" by Little, "All the King's Horses" by Widdemer, "Red Silence" by Norris, "Philippe" by Sedgwick, "Kitty" by Deeping, and "The Window" by Rosman.

A story hour for the children in grades one to six will be held at 10:30 Saturday morning. The stories to be told are "The Monkey and the Crocodile," "Hungry Hans," "Shooting of Red Eagle," and "To Market, To Market."

SUSPECT QUESTIONED ON WINDOW PEEPING

Kaukauna—A person suspected of window peeping has been taken into custody by police. He was taken to Appleton where he will be questioned.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wagner and Mrs. O. Luedtke Thursday attended the funeral of a relative at Shawano.

A son was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. J. Holm, Desnoyer st.

MAJOR WILL DISCUSS CITY GARDENING PLANS

Kaukauna—Mayor B. W. Fargo, who has been working on city gardening plans, will discuss the subject at a meeting of the Kaukauna Advancement association next Wednesday evening at Hotel Kaukauna. The proposal to conduct a Kaukauna hour over broadcasting station WHBY at Appleton also will be considered. Reports on the Mid-Winter fair will be submitted, as well as on the post office proposition. C. J. Hanson will tell of the comments made by weekly newspaper editors following their convention here last fall.

WORKMEN INSTALL NEW LIGHTS ALONG OAK-ST.

Kaukauna—Installation of lights along Oak-st. has been started by workmen of the city utility department. The lights were removed from the Wisconsin Ave bridge recently, when new hanging lights were put there. The old light posts were removed because they were frequently broken off by cars. They will be placed along Oak-st.

KAUKAUNA STUDENTS HOLD PEP SESSION

Kaukauna—Students of the high school held a pep meeting Friday morning in the high school auditorium in anticipation of the Kaukauna-Neenah basketball game Friday evening. The basketball squad demonstrated the fundamentals of the game such as dribbling, pivoting, guarding, passing, shooting and plays.

WISCONSIN FIRST IN KRAUT CABBAGE

1930 Crops Totaled 64,000 Tons, Representing Increase of 37 Per Cent

Madison—Wisconsin was first in all states in the nation in production of cabbage for kraut with a crop of 64,800 tons in 1930 or an increase of 37 per cent over production of last year. This exceptional crop came largely as a result of a 31 per cent increase in acreage, from 5,500 last year to 7,200 acres in 1930, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States departments of agriculture at Madison. Yield per acre was down about one-half of a ton this year compared to last.

Total production cabbage for kraut in the United States was 192,700 tons in 1930 or an increase of 24 per cent over the crop of last year and 34 per cent over the 1928 crop. Acreage in the United States showed an increase of 32 per cent compared to the 1929 acreage. All states with significantly large areas usually devoted to kraut cabbage planted larger acreages in 1930 than in 1929. Farm value of the United States 1930 crop of cabbage for kraut is estimated at $1,536,000 which is four per cent under the value of a year ago due to a decrease of 32 per cent in price which placed the average price in the country as a whole at $7.97 per ton for this year's crop.

Wisconsin accounted for 29 per cent of the United States acreage of kraut during the past season and produced 34 per cent of the country's entire crop. The average seasonal price is estimated at $8.50 per ton for the 1930 state crop as compared to $11.00 and $8.20 for the 1929 and 1928 crops respectively.

STAMP COLLECTOR OWNS CARD WRITTEN BY LOST AVIATOR

A postcard written by Lieut. William S. MacLaren, transatlantic flier apparently lost at sea just before his return and his companion Mrs. Beryl Hart, left Bermuda, is owned by Wilmer Schaefer, Appleton stamp collector. The card, dated at Bermuda on Jan. 8, has the message, "First stage—made more difficult than expected—a series of unfortunate accidents—next jump our big test—the last Azores to Paris will be easy. MacLaren."

Nothing has been heard of the two fliers who started out to make the first transatlantic commercial flight in history.

PLAN IMPROVEMENT OF NORTHERN HARBORS

Duluth, Minn.—(P)—Work on the Superior and Ashland harbors to cost about $300,000 is being planned for 1931 by the United States government, Major P. C. Bullard, federal district engineer here has announced.

The first major project of the engineer's office for 1931 is expected to be started soon, following letting of contracts this week on extension of the shore end of the north breakwater at the Superior entry. Bids for this work, which is estimated to cost between $30,000 and $50,000 are to be opened today.

Average price of Wisconsin cabbage for the past season was well above that in most other important kraut cabbage producing states. Farm value of the 1930 Wisconsin crop has been placed at $551,000 which, due to greater production, is $31,000 more than the value of the 1929 crop and it is $218,000 more than farm value of the 1928 kraut cabbage crop.

The work will consist of reconnecting the breakwater to the shore, to prevent high water from swirling about the exposed shore end. The work is expected to be completed in three months.

Contracts will be awarded next month for extensive work at both harbors. Present plans call for dredging at the Ashland harbor costing $100,000 with $170,000 to be spent if additional appropriations can be obtained.

The Superior harbor will be dredged at a cost of $30,000 while Howard's Bay will also be dredged at a cost of $36,000. The work at Superior harbor was authorized several years ago but there was no need for the improvements until this year, Major Bullard said. The Ashland harbor is in need of extensive improvements.
